Father Schneider—St. Mary

"The hard working priest" Father teaches religion to the junior girls when he isn't working on the Bluebook or taking pictures.

Smile, Father Schneider, it's your turn to be on Candid Camera!

Christ's priests work to make us a more perfect reflection of our Model.

Father Jacoby—St. Mary

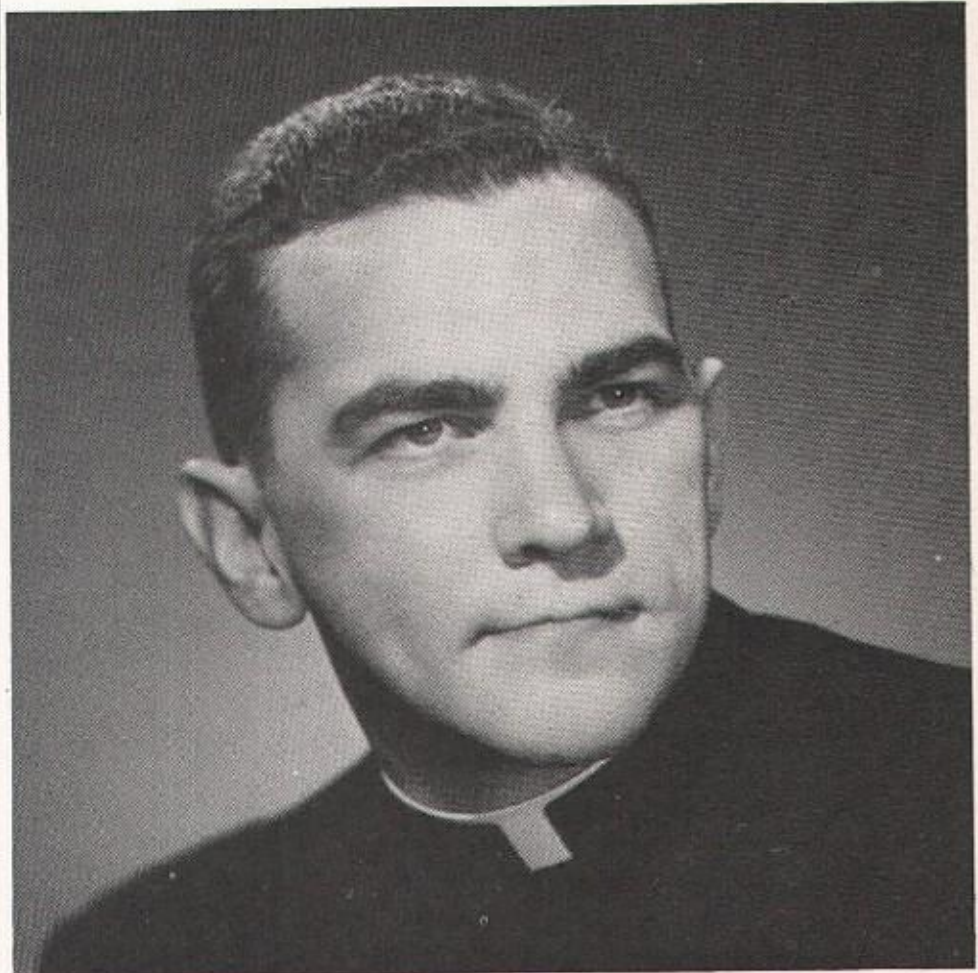

Father Jacoby, a welcome addition at St. Mary's, has become a very active member of our faculty. Besides teaching senior religion, he is head of our Religion department and moderator of the Legion of Mary. He has also arranged for extra-curricular activities, such as skating parties, which have saved us from many a boring free day.

Father Vieweg—St. Mary

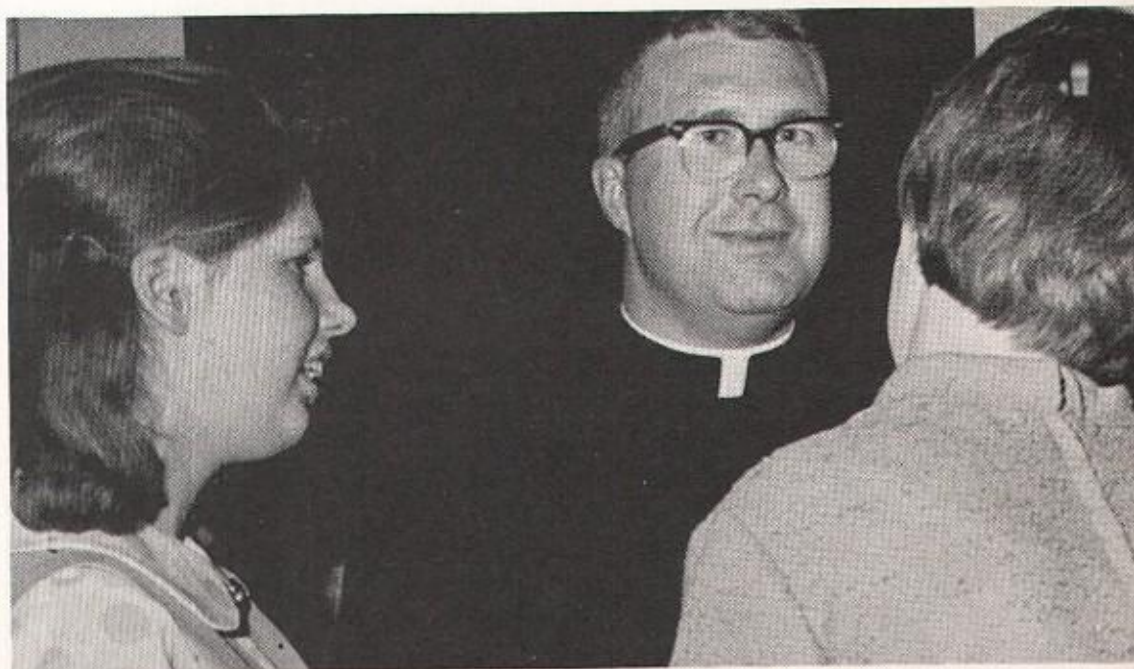

Father Vieweg, a newly ordained assistant at St. Mary's, stepped right into the swing of things by accepting many responsibilities. In addition to teaching two sophomore religion classes, Father is in charge of the high school Confraternity Classes, the adult Legion of Mary, the parish C.Y.O., the altar boys, and both Boy and Girl Scouts.

Father Vieweg and T. Capan match pennies at the Mardi Gras dance.

Father Jacoby took time out from his heavy schedule to attend many of our school activities. At the Mardi Gras dance he stopped to talk with J. Hoff and A. Tippie.

Hard-Working Parish Priests Find

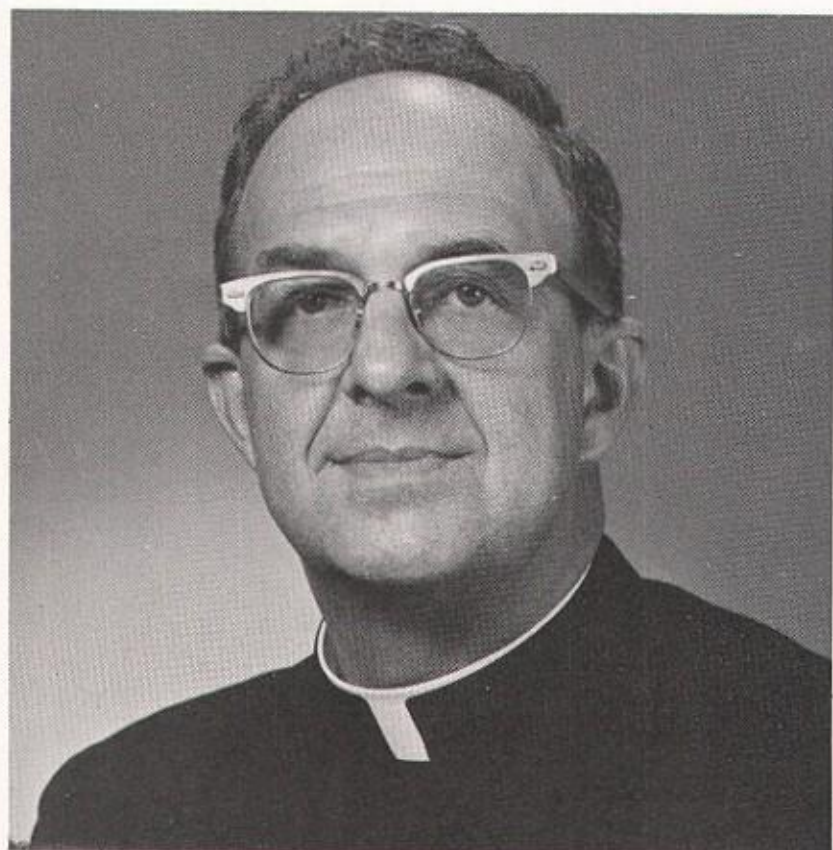

Father Bartko—Sacred Heart

Father Bartko teaches freshman religion. Although he is not new here, he still has trouble distinguishing the up steps from the down.

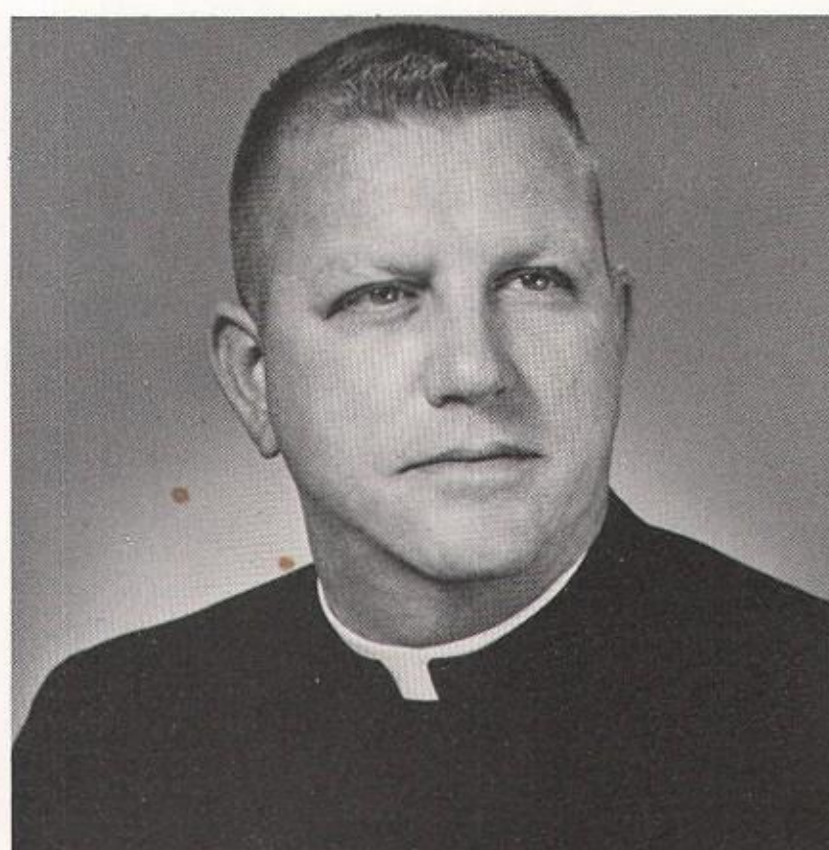

Father Selle—St. Joseph

Although Father Selle was transferred to St. Joseph in the Falls he still found time to return to St. Mary's and teach sophomore religion.

Father Michalski—St. Hedwig

"Long homework assignments?" Father Ted, who is well-liked by all at St. Mary's because of his kindness, teaches religion to the junior girls.

Father Schleicher—St. Bernard

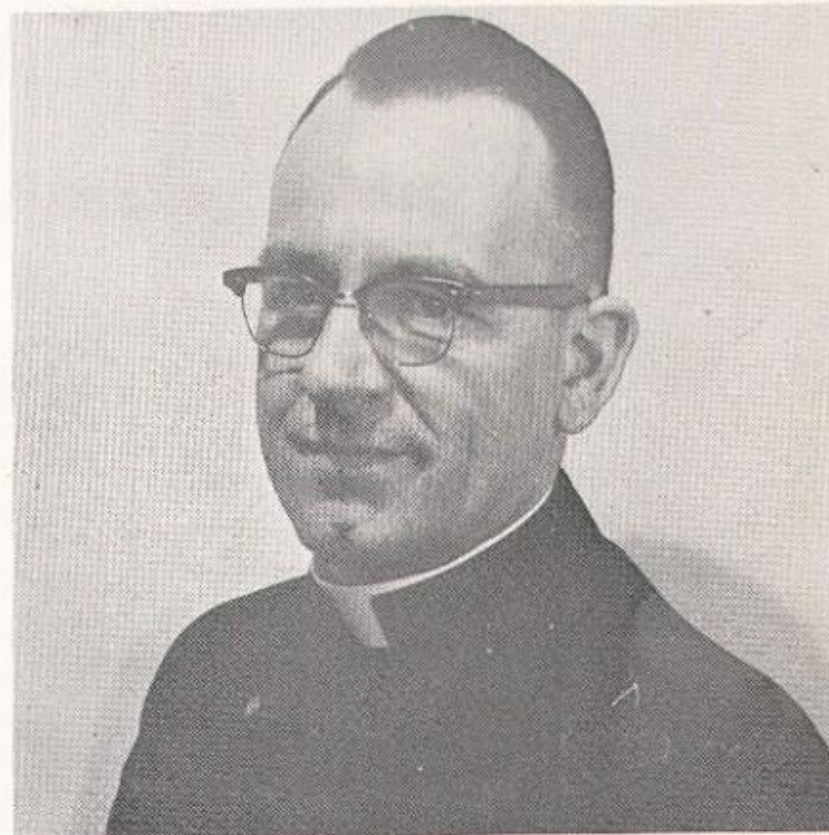

Father Schleicher teaches sophomore religion. His students also learn about football, basketball, and baseball—three sports in which he excels.

Time to Help Out at St. Mary's

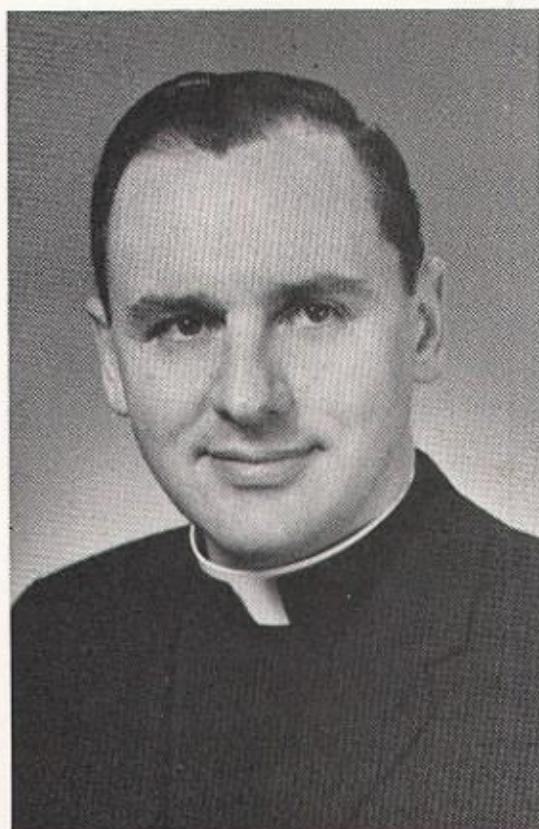

Father Smith—Annunciation

The most effective way of teaching is through example and the principle quality of Father's classes is his example.

Father Walzer—St. Martha

Father Walzer teaches Religion to the inquisitive freshmen. He enjoys instructing them and finds time to console them about their big problems.

Father Cassidy—St. Martha

Father is noted for his quick smile and fast pace. He teaches religion to the freshmen.

Father Bouschere—Toledo Diocese

"A friendly smile and a helping hand." Father Bouschere often devotes his time to St. Mary's by distributing Communion to the girls at Mass.

Seniors

The halls are still—silent. We've known and loved this school both an eternity and a second. We think back to our freshman year with the "old" uniforms and their kick-pleats, new friends, the football team that won the State Championship, and the end of every line.

Then we were sophomores. We remember the Senior-Faculty game with the silent cheers, the Mogadore game, the clubs we were finally allowed to join, and the long bus ride to Coshocton to see our very last football game.

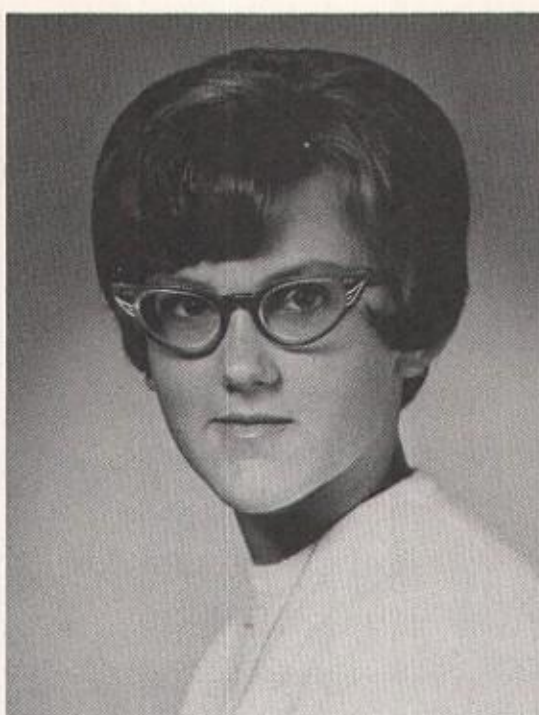

Soon we were juniors! What a year that was. Just remember Monsignor's 50th Anniversary, our first "boyless" year, the months of practice and the excitement of the Wizard of Oz, ordering our rings, the hectic preparation for our Prom, "Moonlight and Roses".

And then we were seniors! Remember: Little Sister Week, being first, the Senior Ball, delivering Thanksgiving baskets, winning the intramurals, English Class, "Senior Blues" over school in general, the picnic, the Prom, and most of all, graduation.

We, the Class of 1965, look back, but we remember to look forward, too. We leave with confidence, but we take with us these memories.

Chosen by Hoban seniors and varsity football players to reign over the dance with her were her attendants: P. Anderson and L. Scheatzle of St. Mary's escorted by J. Pierie and J. Hrabusa. What is a sophomore? She is the upper of the lower classmen and has learned all the tricks of the trade. She puts her spirit into extra-curricular activities which she is able to join. Lockers are no enemy to her as in freshie year. They now are a friendly confine to hold make-up, notes, and other gems which are essential for a sophomore's existence. A sophomore is most often found in her native habitat (in and out of trouble). She is easily identified by her Joe E. Brown mouth and her Phyllis Diller type life.

Academic

Students Set Goals High with Study of God

Religion is the most important subject at St. Mary. R. Weigand, M. DiLullo, and J. Gannon improve their knowledge of the subject by discussing the creative love and power of God the Father.

Seniors C. Dukeman, K. Dyer, M. Fanelly, J. Laviska, M. Lesniewski, S. Linn, P. Moncrief, J. Scarpinito, J. Schubert, K. Shuff, and M. Whitford seem to be quite interested in what father has to say on the subject.

Religion is one subject that is not taken lightly. A living proof of this are D. Nauer, E. Wagner, V. Vrabel, S. Trofy, and L. Sondles as they work diligently at a religion assignment.

Choral, Music Theory Spark Interest in Arts

The sophomore music theory group prepares for the Christmas Program with another day of practice.

That pulsating rythmical sound that starts one swaying and keeping time can be a complicated study when one delves into it academically. This is a reality one soon learns in Music Theory. The ability to dance and sing well is no proof of knowledge of music.

Marianettes M. Guenther, J. Jackson, J. Watson, J. Giacobone, H. Petit, C. Stallard, A. Edmondson (at the piano) run through another old favorite.

D. Mollica, P. Weaver, R. Jordan, M. Dannemiller, M. Rasicci, and C. Meagher remind us of the true meaning of Christmas with a few religious carols. They sing "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and recall the tiny town where Christ was born.

Word power, word work, and word art are all part of the senior English classes. C. Nelson develops her power of speech and M. Cistone acts as chairman.

Thoughts Conveyed By Use of Words

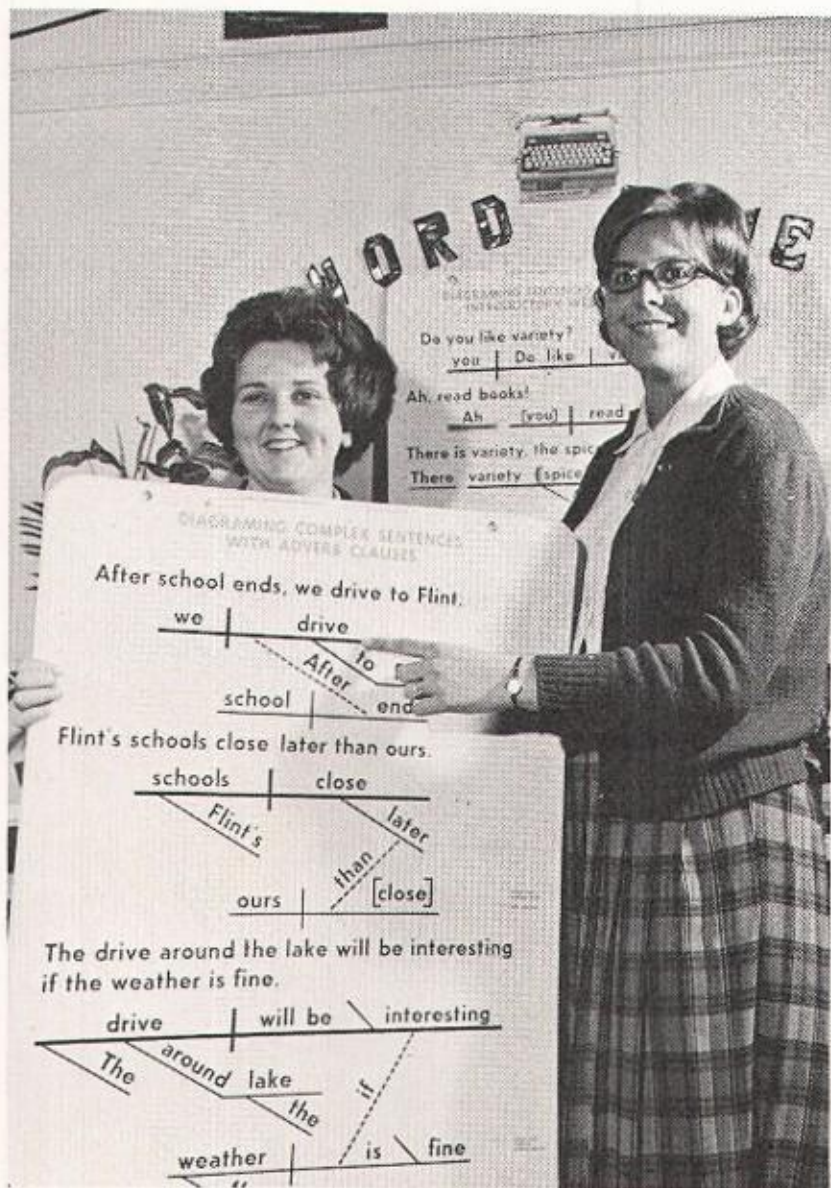

Vocabulary, diagrams, compound-complex sentences, themes, reports—these make up our English course. A major part is taken up by literature, the written expression of man's knowledge, experience, and dreams. As freshmen we see the world folded into neat little books, the past merging with the present. We gasp as Odysseus escapes the Cyclops and watch as Anne Frank is led to jail. Sophomore year is filled with discovery about our own country. We float down the Mississippi with Tom Sawyer, share the heartache of Hester Prynne and chuckle through Booth Tarkington's Seventeen. Juniors meet such art forms as scopic verse and the Petrarchean sonnet while sampling the social novels of Dickens or a little comedy of manners as in Pride and Prejudice. Broadening their scope, seniors take on such literary giants as Homer, Virgil and Dante and learn the importance of Word Power, Word Work, and Word Art.

The underlying theme of "Pride and Prejudice" is a hard one to decipher because of the many ideas presented by V. Vrabel, E. Wagner, K. Selepec and B. Schubert. Besides studying novels, the juniors imitate the works of such famous men as Keats, Shelley, and Dickens.

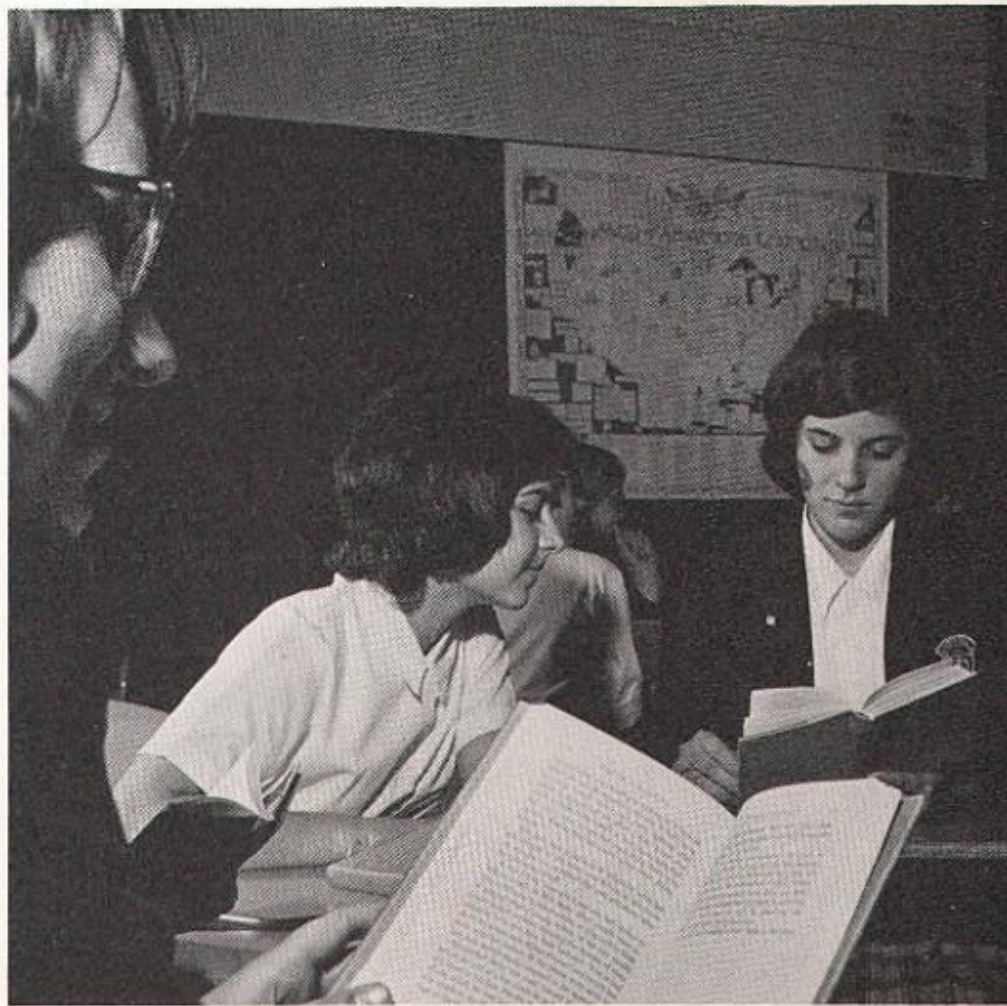

Panel discussions give each individual girl a chance to express her own ideas. J. Hetzel explains the proper rules to follow for panel discussions to interested panel members J. Buhlak, P. Heint, R. Thomas, D. Zepnak, and L. Finan.

Literature isn't the only topic discussed in Sister Marie Lenore's senior English classes. N. Hopp holds a poster with diagrams of complex sentences, while M. Whitten displays her talents by explaining the sentences to the class.

Second year English students, M. Hay, D. Hatherill, and J. Biasella compare views of the plot, theme, and characters of Edith Wharton's novel, Ethan Frome.

Mathematics Helps Develop Reasoning Power

If you happen to find yourself in a class where only a strange code is spoken, someday, don't be alarmed. You have probably invaded the world of modern mathematics, which has a vernacular all its own. As you watch, some students jot symbols down in their notebooks, while others ask questions, and others just sit and stare. But it's not all that bad, as the freshmen soon learn. The basic knowledge of sets, equations, and problems gained in Algebra I prepares students for the more complex geometric figures studied in sophomore year. Congruency and proofs challenge the sophomores. Algebra II acquaints junior math students with the intricacies of the Cartesian coordinate system, special problems of factoring, and the trigonometric functions. Those with enough courage to tackle Math IV learn the secrets of the matrix, conic sections and logic.

New Math is so interesting it keeps you awake nights. R. Delnoce and D. Beltram show its daytime effects.

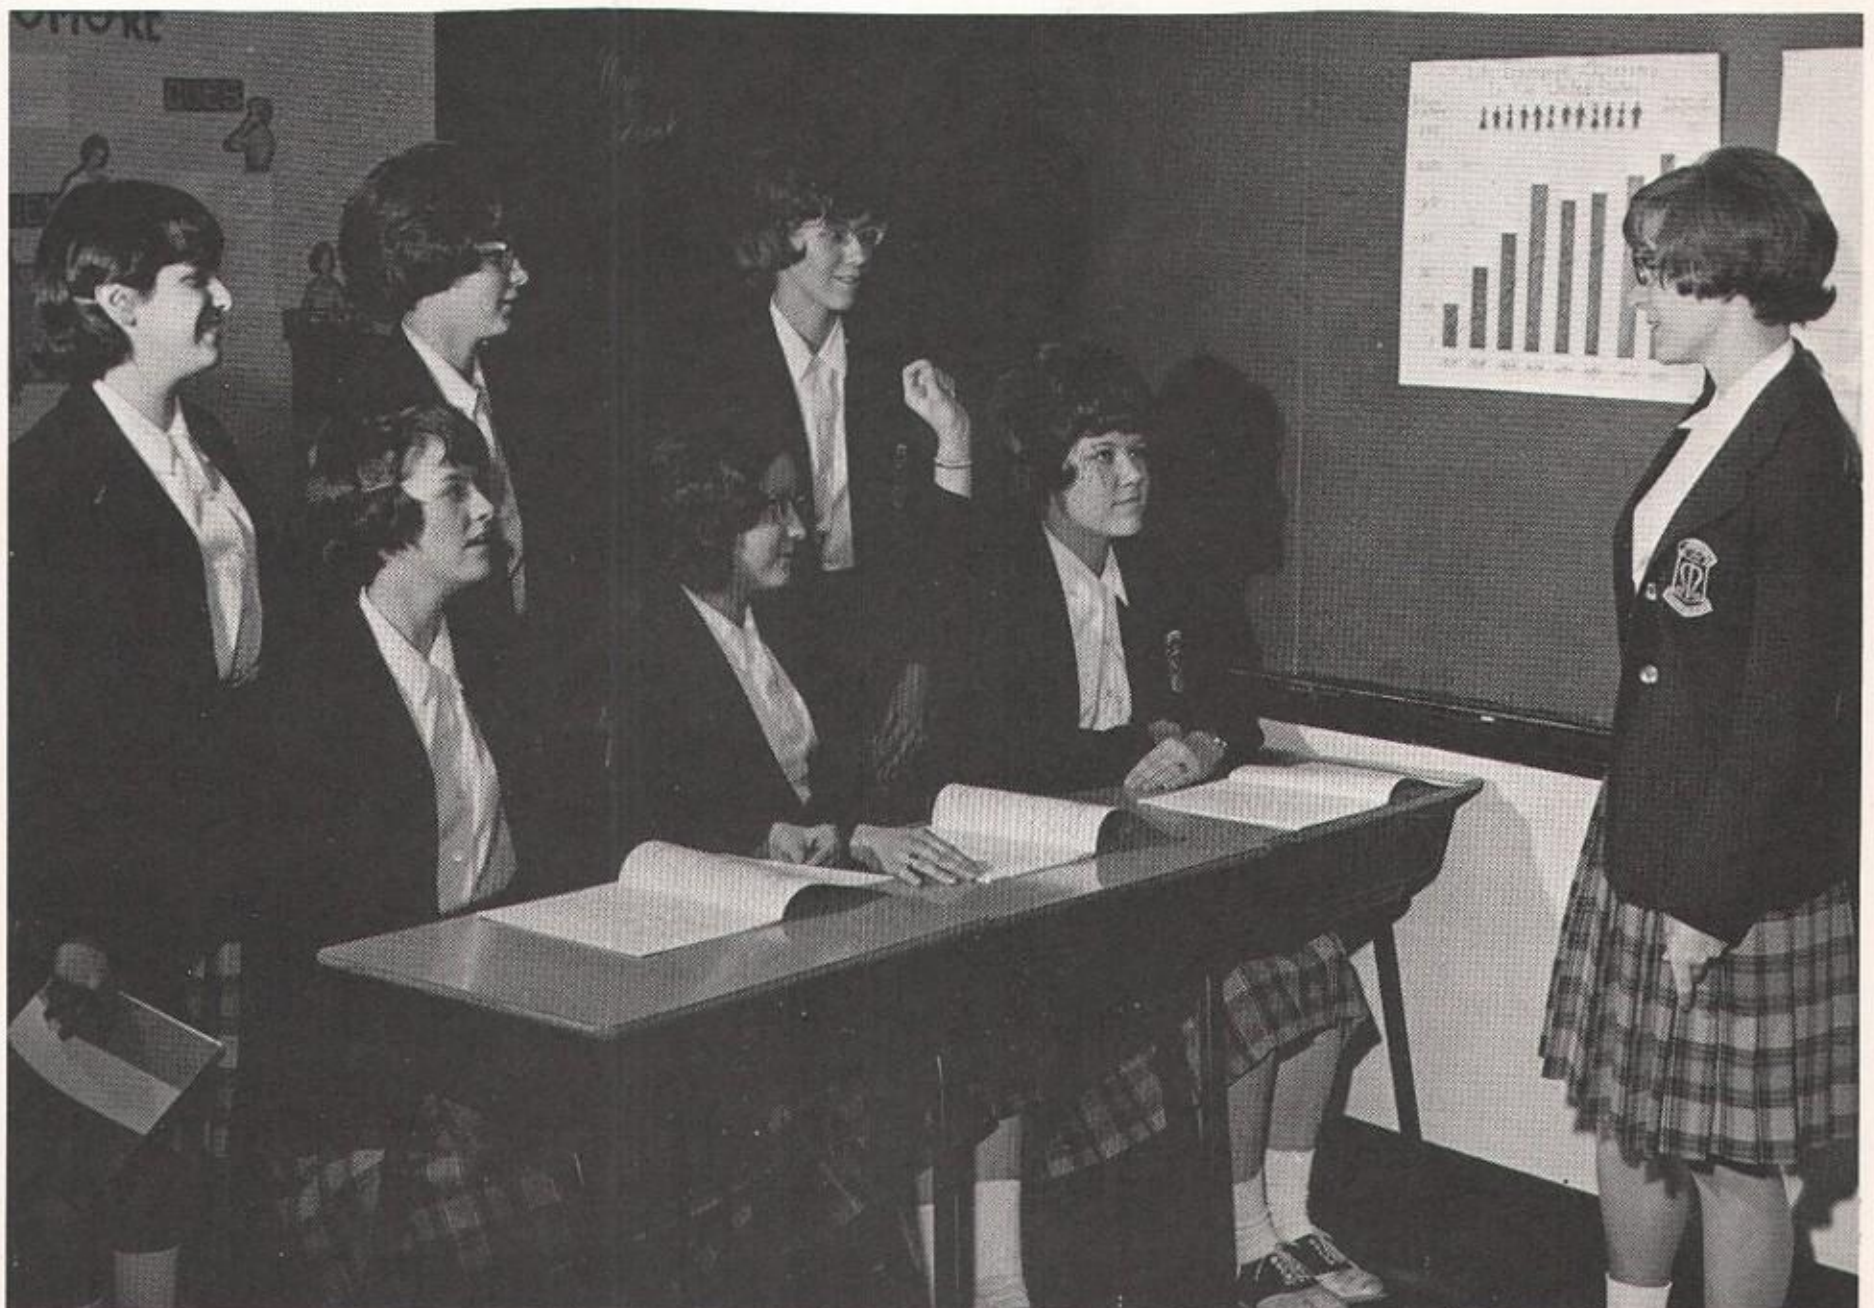

"The application of the cosine function?" To many of us this is just another statement without a definition. But J. Detzel knows what she's talking about as she explains it to I. Wierich (holding the board) and other students of second year algebra.

J. Moore, L. Rittman, and L. Buck study the slopes of curves, cubes, and pyramids.

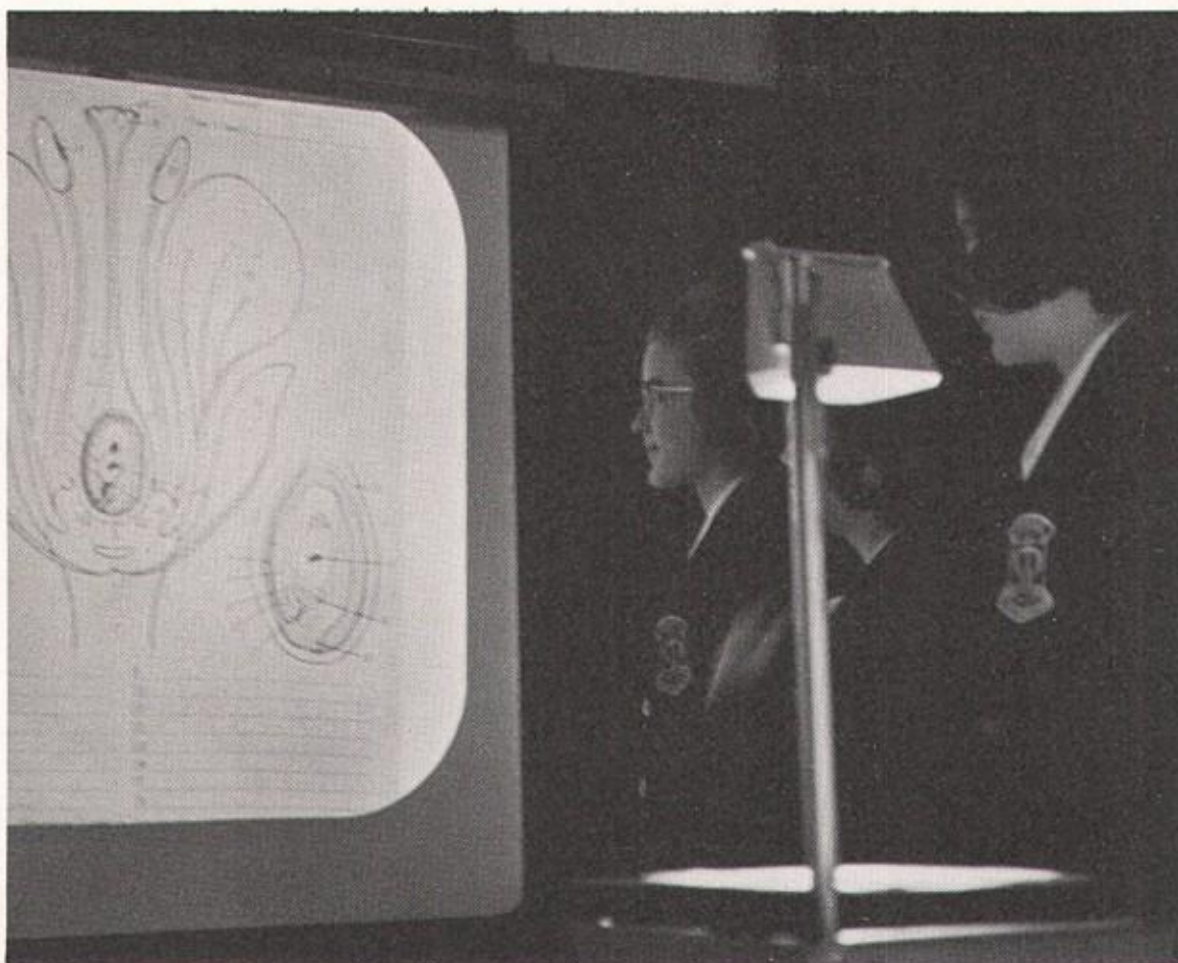

Freshman J. Baughman explains the makeup and function of the number line to C. Floto, P. Shaffer, and J. Lesniewski.

Sophomore M. Delaney explains the system of life insurance in the United States to other members of the general business class, G. Jesser, K. Hengle, D. Stimac, M. Stewart, M. Gonzales, and M. Grom.

Future Scientists Learn by Doing

J. Helms and L. Biasella explain the anatomy of a flower to their biology class.

General science, biology and chemistry, physics make up our science course. By studying the natural sciences, we learn more about the general principles of science, such as Newton's Law of Gravity, and the applications and effects of these principles on our lives. Sophomore year is filled with the study of the beauties of plant and animal life and phenomena of nature. This wide study covers the make up of the human body to that of the tiniest leaf. Juniors enter a more complete study of chemical composition of the earth by learning about changes that occur from the combination of many different substances. In physics seniors are confronted with an infinite number of laws, formulas, and principles which require much study.

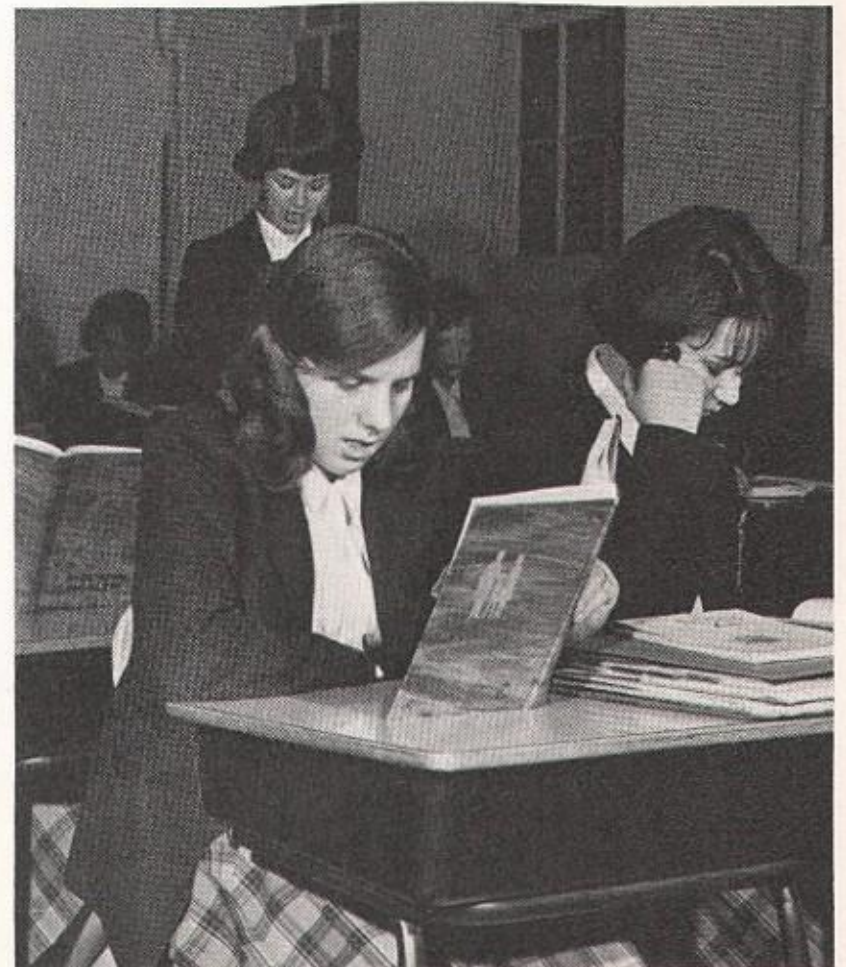

Those wavy white lines across the green screen are fascinating for their scientific significance. They give K. Dyer and J. Ruof a graphic measure of sounds.

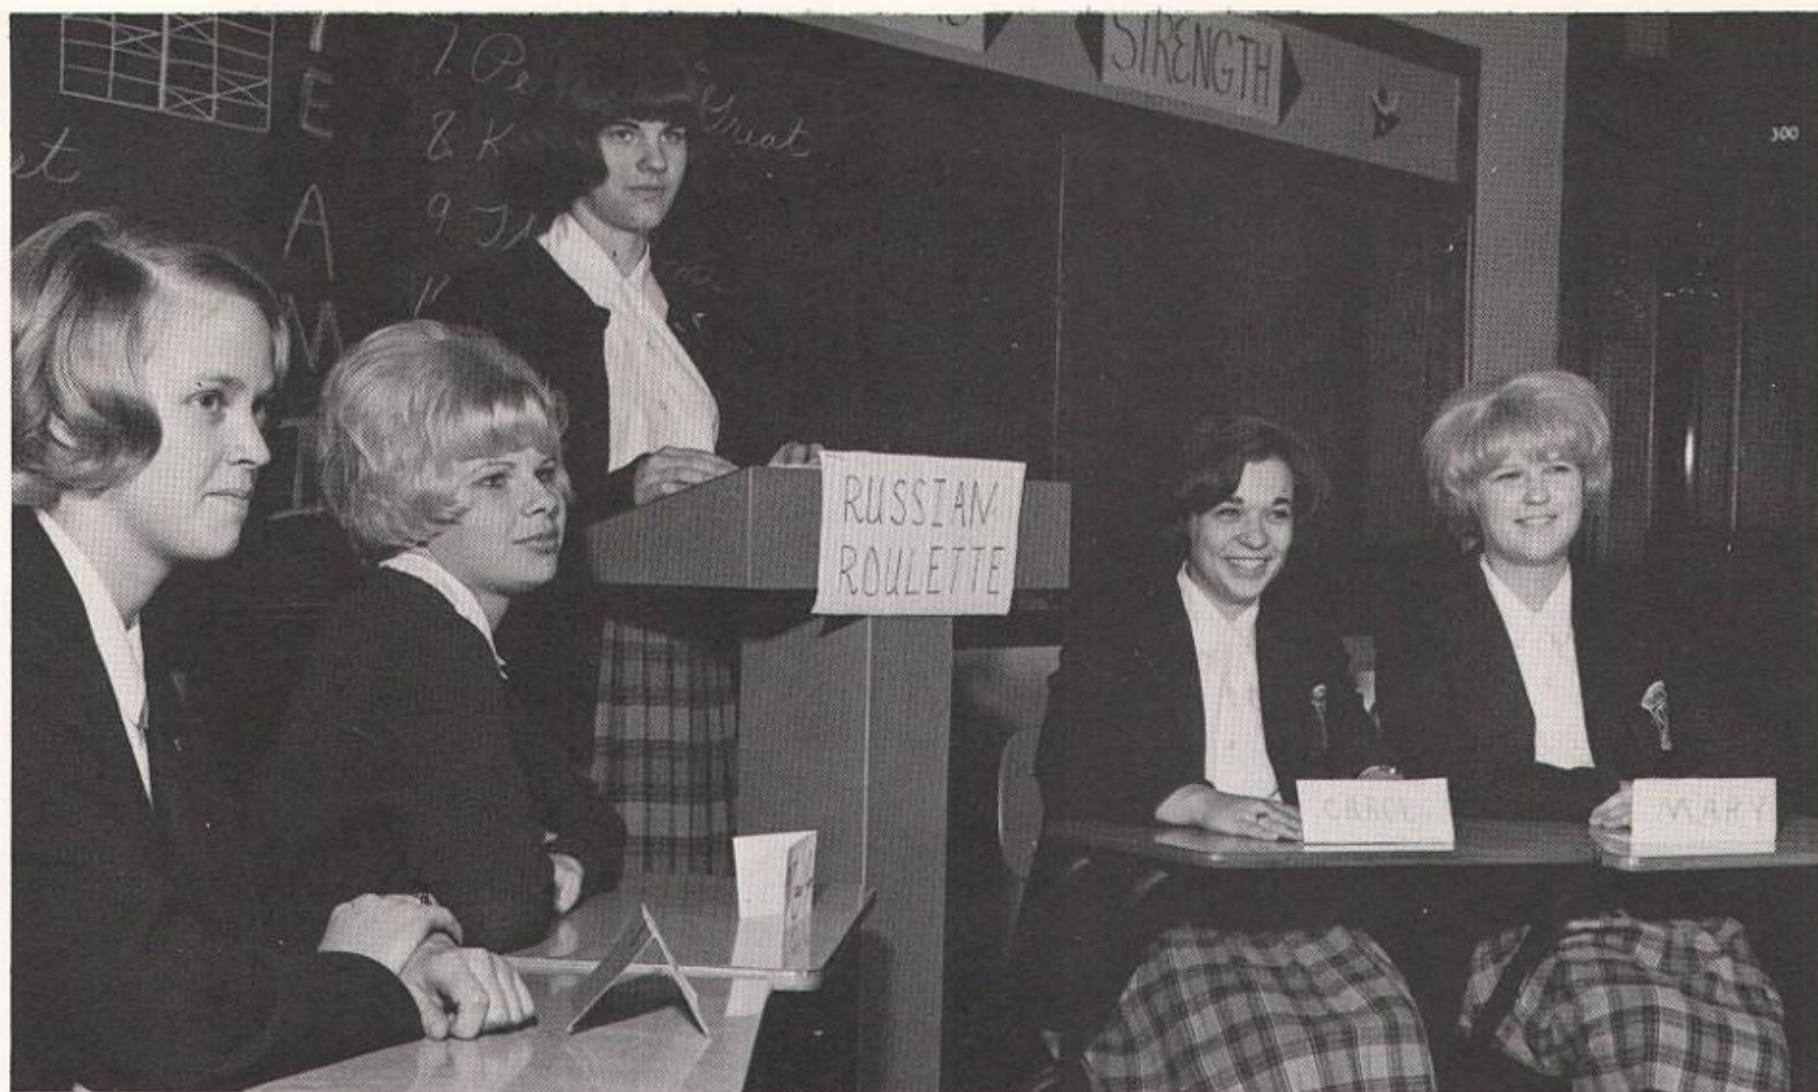

General science proves to be interesting as J. Meagher explains her project to J. Michaud, S. Disalvo, C. Orr, C. Bender, and J. Miller.

K. Sandusky, M. Siglock, A. Schlosser, and D. Williams play Dr. Zorba.

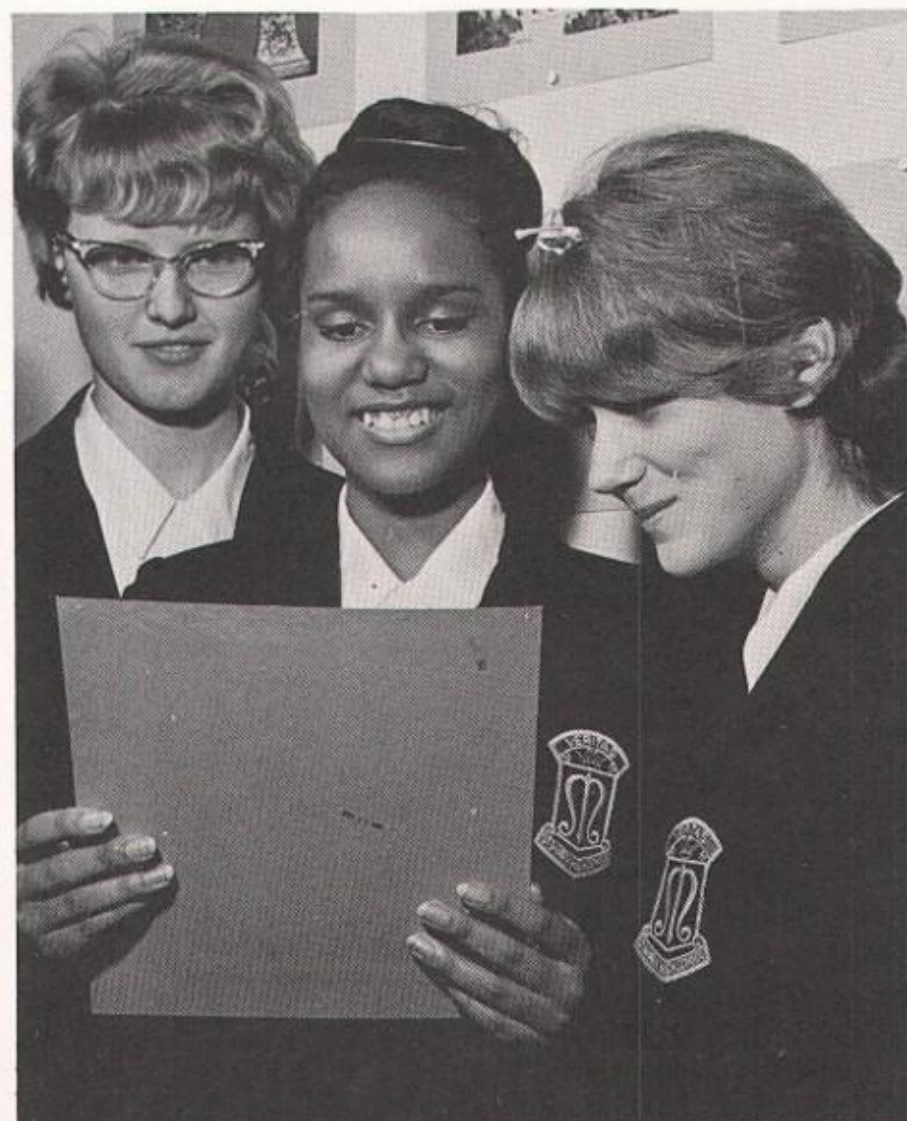

N. Hamilton, D. McGue, C. Hopp, and M. Howard follow along as J. Mesanko reads about the importance of a healthy body. This year the freshies were required to make projects illustrating health rules.

Dismay is the reaction K. Breiding experiences at the suggestion that she demonstrate her topic of discussion. Equally dismayed are J. Barone and M. Kovac. C. Benson and M. Murgatroyd appear pleased.

Social Studies Helps To Mature Students

Man, master of the universe, assumes a new dimension, as the record of his existence comes into focus. As intricate and varied as each human being are the catalysts which have shaped his history on this earth. Men grow old pondering the secrets of the universe, and yet we attempt to study the history of the entire world in one year. Impossible? No! Ask any sophomore, just surfacing after nine months of immersion, wedged between such nobility as Alexander the Great and Marie Antoinette. The juniors probe the depths of our democracy—the great American dream—searching for the causes behind the events in our own history. Coming of age, and astride of contemporary problems, seniors juggle millions on the stock market and study current world problems. Social Studies dull? Why, no. It's the study of man, his ideas and ideals, the guide toward the Utopia of the future.

"It isn't really Mr. Klotz's cottage: it's the Taj Mahal? But he . . ."
M. Eck, T. Jenkins, K. McIntyre are disappointed.

K. Furman, C. Gill, and P. Maggio explain air flow resulting from temperature change.

J. Cerrone gives her views on the cause and cure of America's problems as D. Beltram waits her turn to speak.

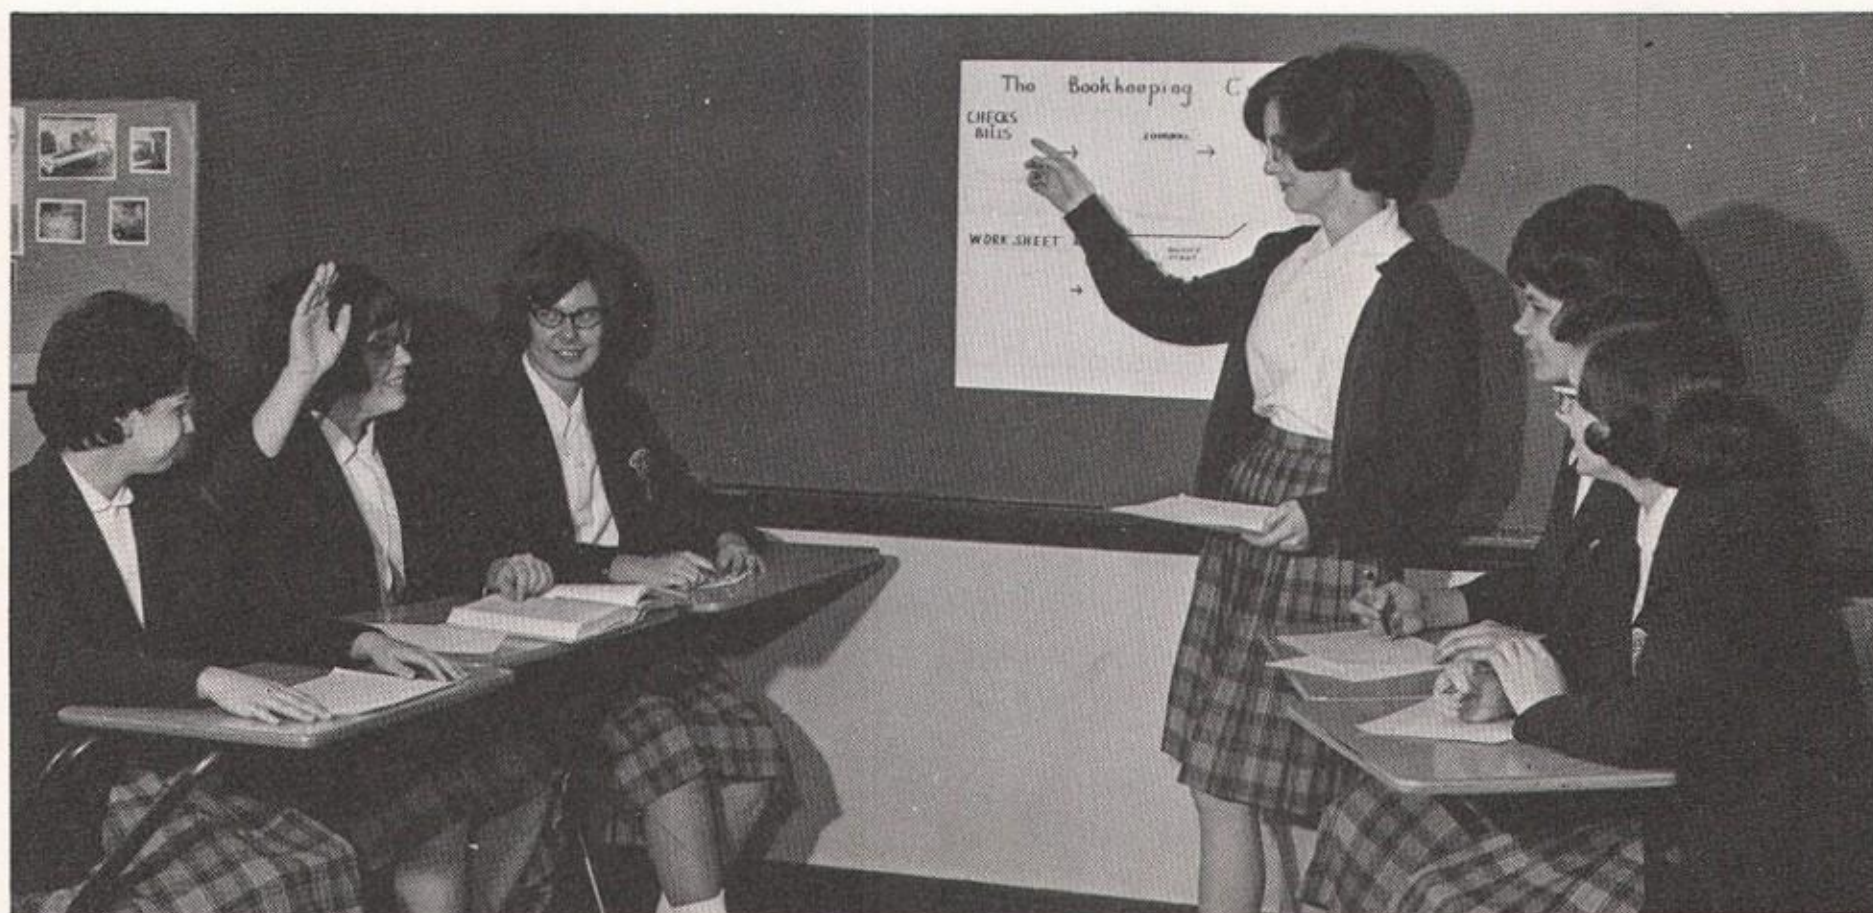

American History student, B. Elmore points out to M. Damicone, C. Estafen, L. Sondles, J. Detzel, and R. Wilke, the portion of land in the United States formerly known as the Louisiana Purchase. She also explains the territorial boundaries and landmarks.

Commercial Students Get Keyhole Preview

Just as important as St. Mary's academic courses are its commercial classes—typing, shorthand, bookkeeping, and clerical office practice. These classes are essential for those planning to enter the business world. Typing requires accuracy, speed, rythm, and mental alertness. When taught the basics of shorthand, students are given opportunities to work with tape recorders and record players—devices which aid them in their study. In bookkeeping, students learn to keep records of business transactions and to make balance sheets and financial reports. Clerical office practice involves filing, billing, and keeping records for certain firms. With these classes it is evident that St. Mary's students are prepared to enter the business world as fine secretaries.

Seeming intent on becoming accomplished secretaries, L. Sondles, J. Cutlip, L. Oakes, and A. Dickinson practice to develop typing skills.

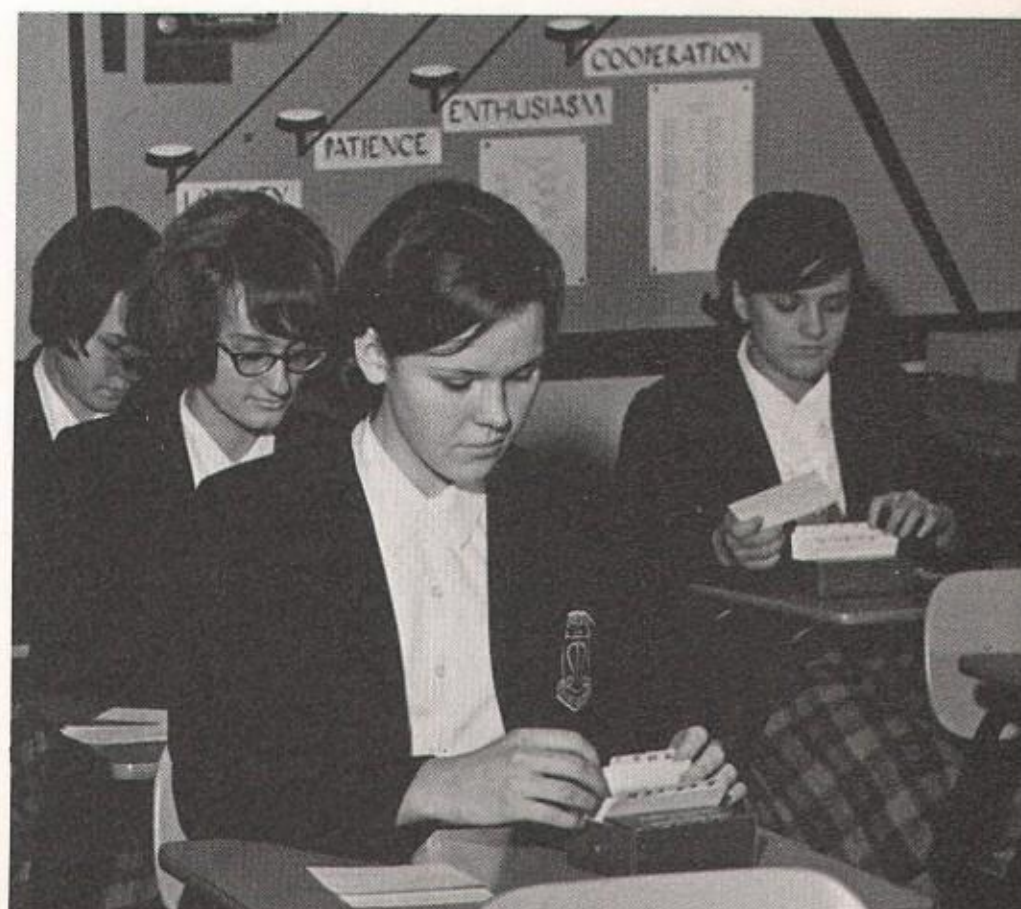

In Sister Gabriel's bookkeeping class, students are taught the phases of the bookkeeping cycle. N. Niam, C. DeJacimo, R. Vargo, and B. Wilson attentively watch B. Gerbetz as she prepares to answer a question proposed by M. Reymann concerning the cycle.

T. Edl, T. Petit, T. Varca, C. Jenkins, and G. Ricciardi find that shorthand classes become more interesting with the use of dictation records. These records ranging in speed depending on the girls' ability, also help them to improve their grades.

M. Cincione, M. Kernan, and P. Becker give their after school time to help with the typing of Sodality programs.

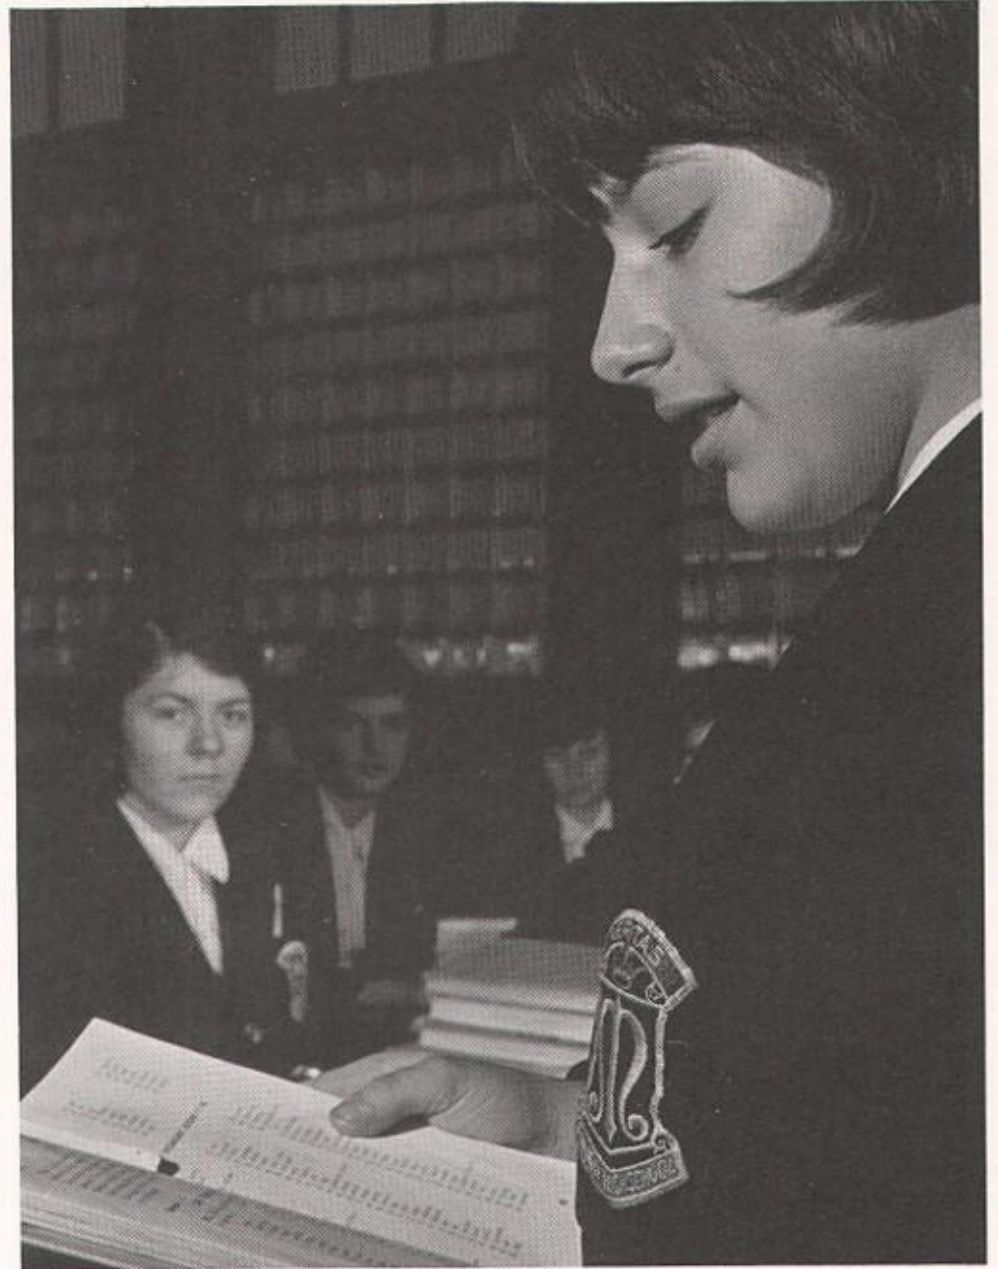

Filing kits help juniors B. Lenihan, M. Dishong, I. Groom and J. Watring to learn the basis of clerical office practice.

Communication Is Vital To any Language

"When in French class do as the French do." K. Kelly, J. McVay, and N. Banevich celebrate Christmas with a few carols.

Setting her sights on a Latin assignment, but looking into the future for a college diploma, D. Francis explains the declension of nouns.

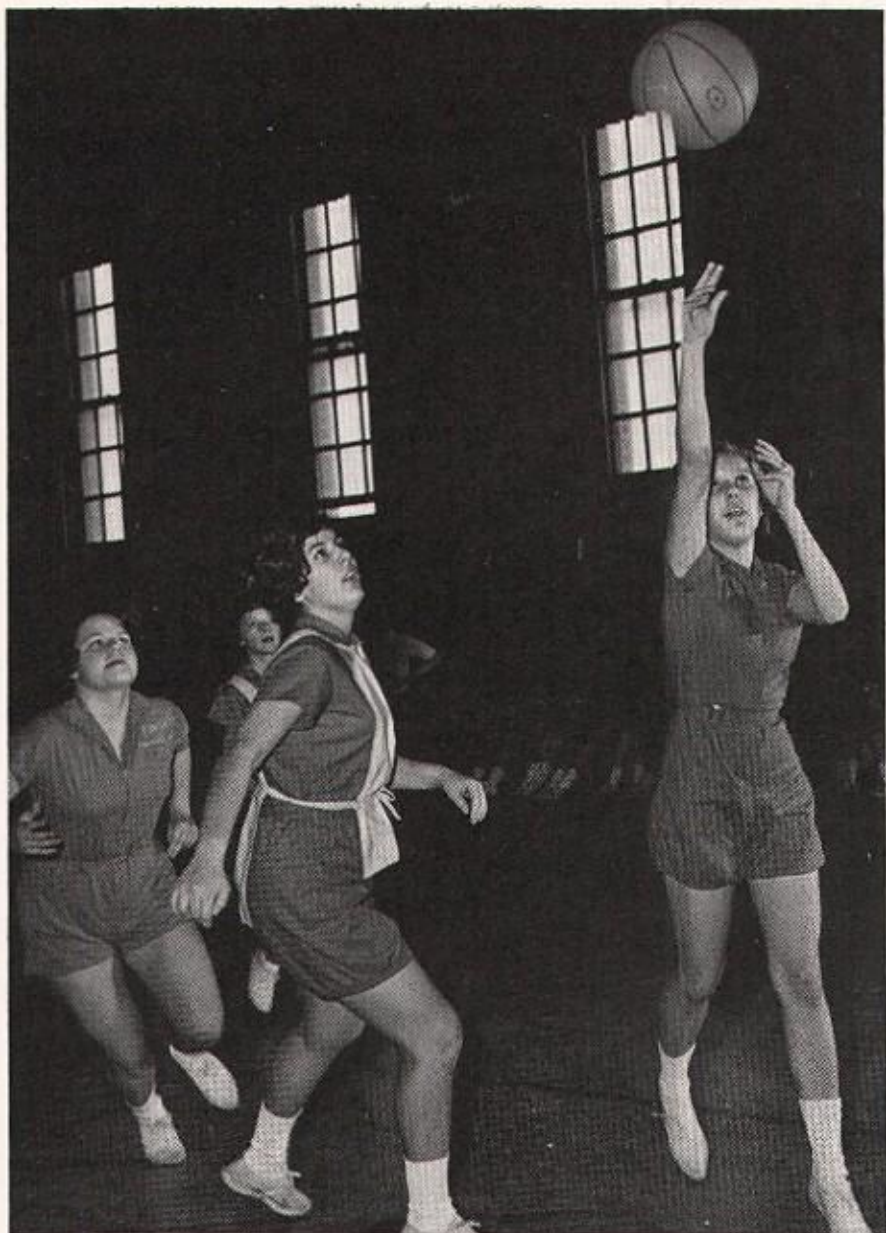

Senior journalism students K. Kelly and C. Kimmel have a big job ahead of them. They must proofread all copy before it can be sent to the printer.

Knowledge of good speech habits is needed by all teachers. J. Lynn emphasizes the importance of English while M. Albanese waits her turn.

Many Facets Involved in Complete Education

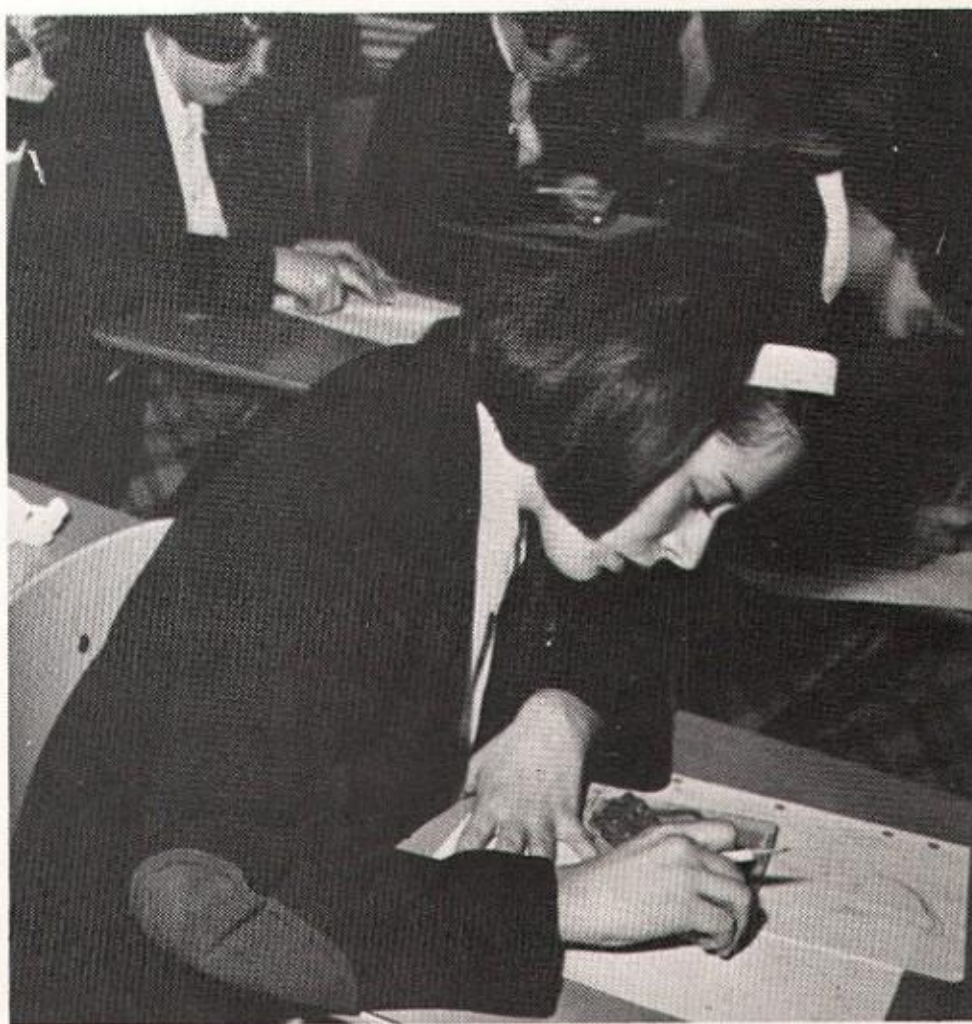

"Now you see it; now you don't." T. Falatok waves a spell on the ball to the astonishment of A. Mollica and M. Williams.

Future homemakers E. Lyons and S. Kane learn the art of cooking.

B. Ruth and R. Rossi are all thumbs over this problem.

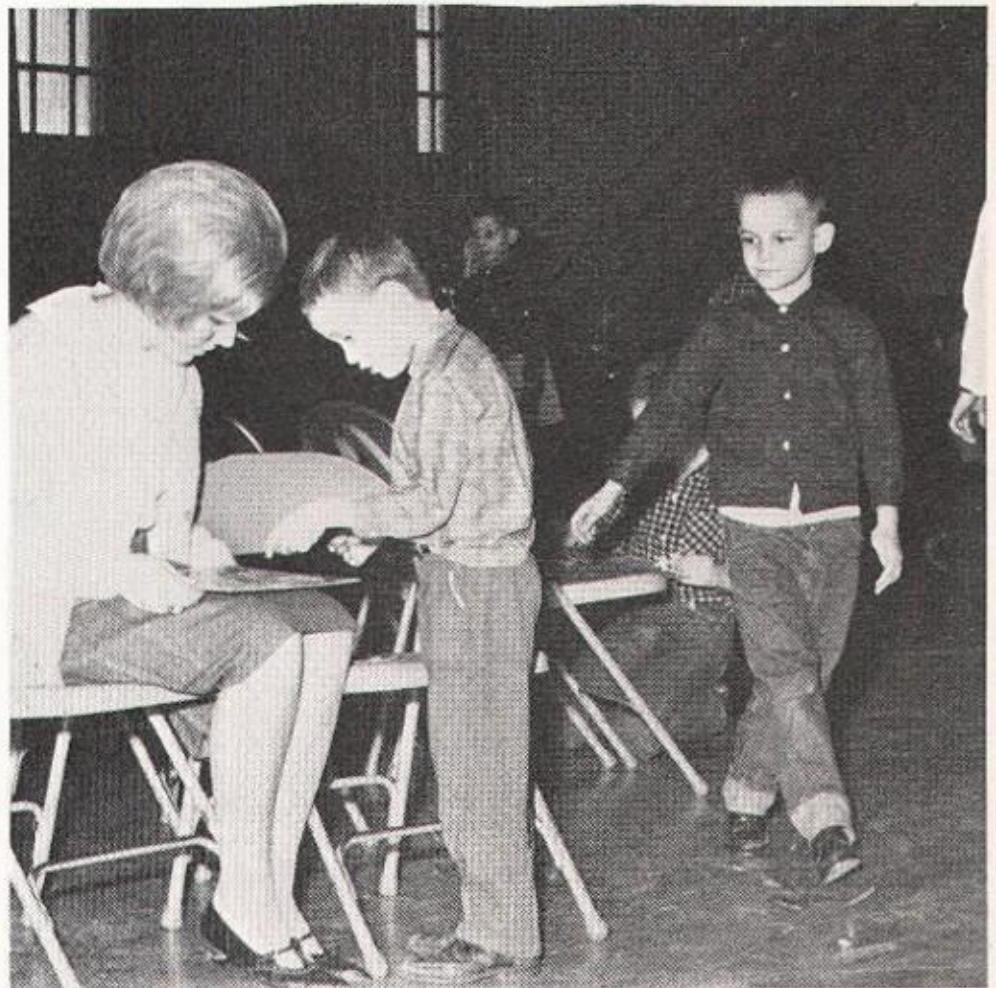

C. Denholm perfects her masterpiece on a dummy sheet.

"The measure of love is to love without measure." She attempts to reciprocate infinite love with the total giving of herself.

Religious Activities

Sodalists Work to Bring Christ to Others

Sodality officers are: M. Kernan, prefect; C. Kimmel, co-prefect; P. Becker, corresponding secretary; K. Kelly, recording secretary.

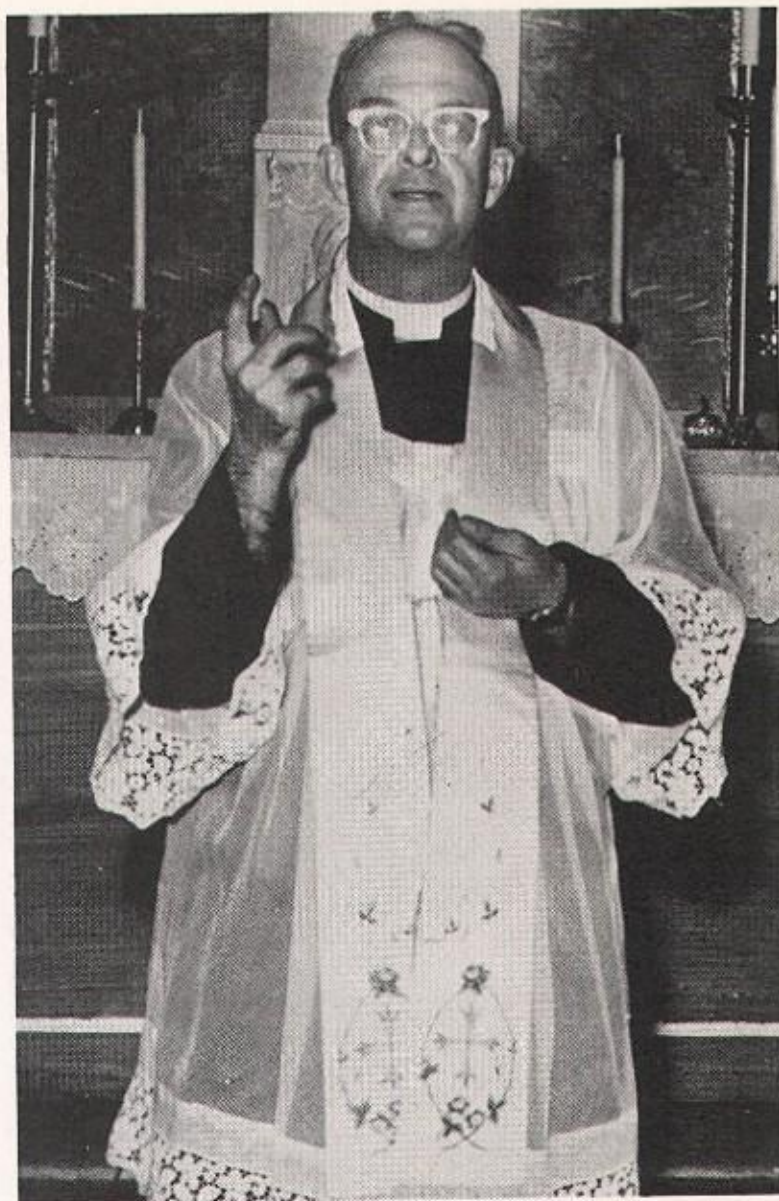

As well as providing fun for all, the party held for the children's home was a huge success. M. Abdoo and her friend have fun putting a puzzle together.

"To Jesus through Mary"—this is the motto of the Sodality. Members become closer to our Lord by prayers and actions directed to Mary. Sodalists try to find a situation in everyday life which can be corrected. They discuss the problem and try to find a solution. This Apostolic Work was accomplished when the Sodality held a party for children from the Children's Home. Each spring the Sodalists make their Act of Consecration. They promise that they will faithfully follow all the rules of the Sodality for a period of one year.

B. Schultz prepares for the Mardi Gras. The object of her attention is a stuffed dummy—one of the many decorations that added gaiety to the night.

Fr. T. Michalski instructs Sodalists on some principles of the Faith at the Day of Recollection.

B. Schultz, Sr. Vera, and, D. Naver take pride in the Easter baskets which the Sodality made for the people at St. Edward's Home.

Legion of Mary Performs Parish Services

One of the activities of the Legion is the performance of services for the parish. Here M. Dangel and C. Meagher distribute Mass cards and the parish bulletin.

The Legion of Mary, open only to girls of St. Mary Parish, is responsible for volunteer works performed throughout the parish. Some of its activities are visiting the elderly at the St. Stephen's Home, doing clerical work for the rectory, serving at banquets, and babysitting every Sunday during the Masses. The officers are Mrs. Capan, President; C. Meagher, Secretary; A. Tippie, Treasurer; and Father Jacoby, Moderator.

At a meeting of the Legion of Mary, T. Heller, C. Kozesky, and E. Abraham take time out from their activities to pose for the camera.

CSMC Swamped As Stamps Pour In

The program of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade is a threefold one: prayer, study, and sacrifice for the missions. The study of missions is the foundation of the program, for such study motivates prayer and sacrifice. Every Wednesday is Mission Day. On this day, we receive corporate Communion at Community Mass and pray for vocations. Other efforts include: adoption of a missionary by the homerooms, the Bishops' Relief Fund, Thanksgiving Clothing Drive, and the collection of cancelled stamps. CSMC president is J. Sutter; the moderator is Sr. Marie Arthur.

Has the CSMC taken up stamp collecting as a hobby? No, but money from the stamps helps missionaries. As J. Sutter and P. Ringeis look for the address, B. Kumse and R. Kapper count the stamps.

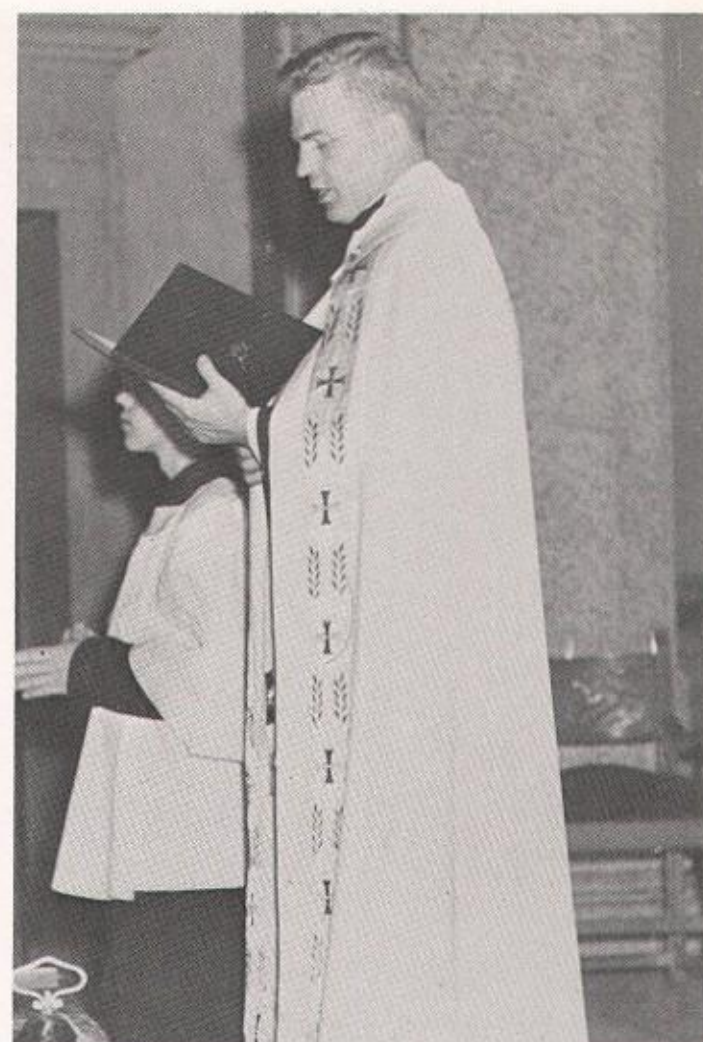

"Hey, Hey!" shouts disc jockey Quum Quat (S. McVan). "Let's hear another number by the Rolling Bones (B. Alekna, J. Lynn, M. Alexander)!" Fresh from their swim across the Atlantic, the Bones burst into their version of "We Love You." The Bones, with fans J. Sekerak, K. Hoynes and M. Whitten, donated their earnings to the missions.

Students Reflect During Retreat, Vocation Day

"Should I, or shouldn't I?" thinks P. McCarthy as she stops to look at one of the many displays illustrating the work of an order represented in the Vocation Day panel.

One of the most solemn and important events of the school year is the annual retreat. This year Fr. Ritty was the retreat master.

The spirit and fervor of the retreat is exemplified by these sophomores. We must devote some special time during the year for this spiritual renewal and emphasize the real purpose of life. This is especially necessary in the modern society.

Seniors Look Forward To Future

Commencement exercises may mark the end of four hard years of study, but, more important, they mark the beginning of a new life.

D. Tretto kneels to say a silent prayer to Our Lady of Guadalupe.

Paying due homage to Mary (A. Pouliot) at the Senior Dedication.

She turns her sparkle and enthusiasm to light the lives of others and there finds a renewal of her own life.

Social Life

Symphony of Color Casts Spell at Ball

An aura of mellow browns and golds illuminated the auditorium. Ripples of laughter echoed as couples danced to the strains of an Autumn Symphony. Then as the drums rolled softly and the spotlight swung to the top of the staircase, our Senior Ball court was presented. After being crowned by Mary Ann Kernan, our lovely queen, Rosalind Smith, and her partner Terry Means led the court's dance. Soon the music stopped and the happy couples left for parties and restaurants. But the memory of our Senior Ball would stay with them for a long time.

The highlight of a memorable evening, was the crowning of Queen Rosalind Smith by Mary Ann Kernan.

Couples R. Smith and T. Means, M. Polovick and J. Stefic, K. Yeager and N. Garlando, P. Walter and V. Wilkenson sway to the enchanting music of the Frankie Reynolds Orchestra and the title of our Senior Ball, Autumn Symphony, becomes a reality.

M. Pantuso and C. Stallard, along with their dates D. Parker and J. Tramonte, relax as they study the make-up of a flashbulb.

Terry Means smiles proudly as he dances with his lovely queen, Rosalind Smith, and enjoys a thrilling evening.

Woodland Animals Watch Couples Dance

B. Parr shakes a finger at his date, M. Stewart, saying, "Okay—so what if everyone who wanted one took one?" But Mary doesn't seem to be taking him too seriously. She'd still like to have that little animal as a souvenir.

"Twinkle twinkle little star . . ." The light for the Sno-Ball was supplied by the glistening stars which M. Abdoo pins into place.

"Mr. Snowman" smiles down on R. Heisser and escort, J. Elliott, who join the other couples on the dance floor.

Getting ready for the Sno-Ball, K. Conway and C. Nelson spray snow on the forest animals to give them that wintery look.

As soft music plays in the background, E. Cardina and P. Savage, along with their dates, D. Singer and D. Wildroute pause between dances to enjoy the refreshments.

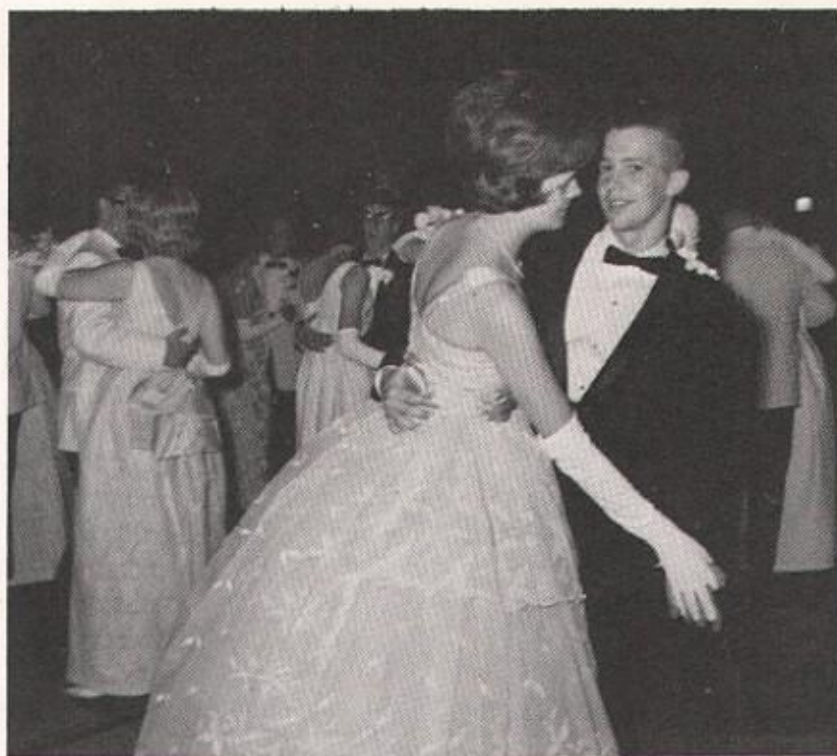

With the night only half over, couples J. Reiner, N. Finn, P. Reiner, B. Radwany, P. Thomas, S. Griffith, R. Considine and J. Yeager, who are sitting this one out, seem to be having a good time as they talk over the excitement the evening still has to offer.

Moonlight and Roses Set Scene at Prom

"The pause that refreshes" applies as well to tired feet learn C. Ickes and R. Heisser, and their dates T. Hutchin and G. Eichert.

Judging from P. Becker's expression, F. Christ seems to have placed her in a trance; or is it just the music?

Time out for refreshments and friendly conversation was a pleasant invitation. J. Conner, A. Linderman, B. Considine, and E. Schultz accept.

P. Weaver and her escort J. Freneau are evidently enjoying the evening, but then, who wouldn't in this atmosphere?

"Stand! Love seats unnerve me," S. Ciccolini tells B. Horvath.

Sodality Sponsors Mardi Gras Dance

"Where is everybody tonight?" "At the Sodality dance" would be a fitting reply. At least that's the way it seemed to those who tried to find a square foot of floor to dance on.

T. Harvey is always willing to help a lady in distress, especially when that lady is M. Kernan. Funny how it keeps breaking, Mary Ann.

M. Lesniewski, J. Wainmeyer, M. Horning, and P. Baranek say "hello".

Fun was everywhere at the Mardi Gras dance sponsored by the Sodality. A. Wise and M. Molesky step lively to the bunny hop.

Special Assemblies Spark Life at St. Mary

Talented dramatist, Miss Mary Louise Hickey, presents another excellent performance with her monologue "The Miracle Worker". Miss Hickey has become a regular visitor, as she presents a performance yearly.

Jolly Old Saint Nick, portrayed by K. Welsh, and her two little fairies, R. Delnoce and K. Leroy wish everyone a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

No Christmas program would be complete without St. Mary's Marianettes (l. to r.) J. Jackson, A. Edmonson, J. Giacobone, M. Guenther, M. Lesniewski, J. Watson, H. Petit, and M. Caprez. Helping to keep everyone in the true Christmas spirit, they sing another favorite Christmas carol.

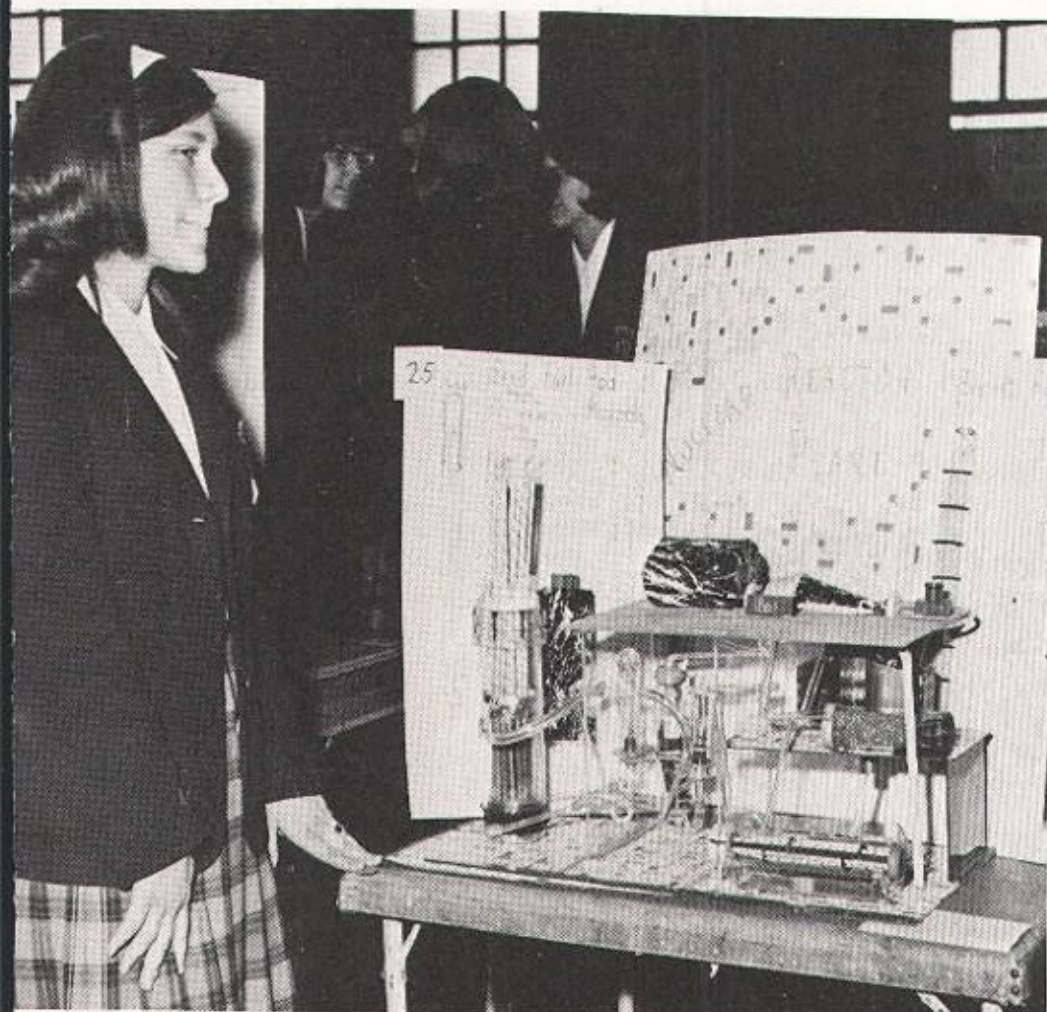

Just the right touch was added to the yearly Christmas program, when the harmonious sound of voices of the Junior-Senior Choral rang through the halls and into the hearts of everyone.

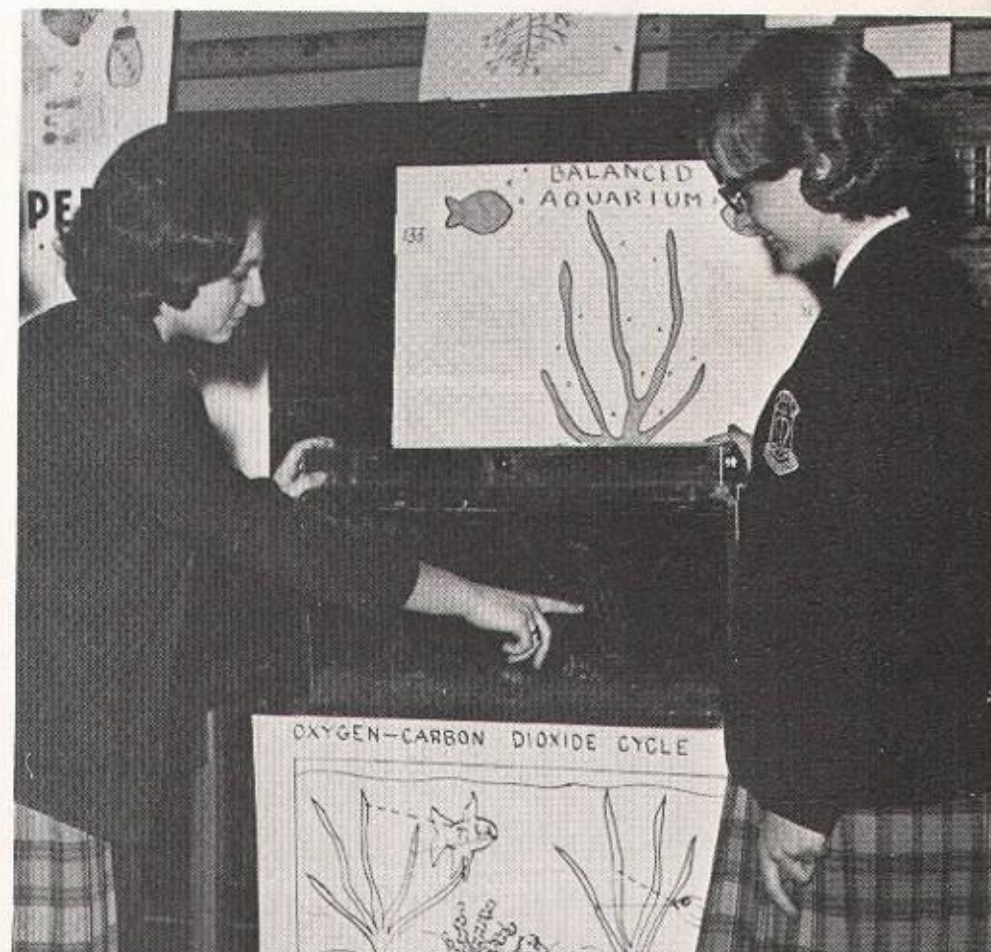

Science Projects Show Promise for Future

If you want to know anything about Gemini rockets ask K. Considine or V. Wagner. They constructed one for the general science division.

A scale model of a nuclear reactor plant was the project chosen by E. Abraham for the Science Fair. It won an honorable mention.

A. Longhitano points out an interesting feature of one of the biology projects, while M. Delaney listens attentively.

The Talent Show, an annual event of the Future Teachers, has always been a huge success. This year was certainly no exception. (Facing page—top) K. Hengle, M. Stewart, P. Reed, and A. Organizations

Student Council Promotes School Spirit

The Student Council sponsored the traditional projects and initiated several new ones during the 1964-65 school year. They sponsored the annual Leadership Assembly, Welcome Freshie Hop, Sno-Ball Dance, CUB drive, sale of school sweatshirts, and Womanhood Week with great results and cooperation. Among the new projects that were undertaken were the two Leadership Workshops and the TACS Program (Teen Awards for Community Service) were most important, followed by the Motion Sheets and sale of school folders. Student Council also assisted with two card parties and served as ushers at St. Mary's Open House. The Council's moderator was Sr. Ignatiana.

The brains behind the outfit in the CUB drive are the members of the Student Council: E. Lyons, A. Wise, B. Miller, R. Porter, and D. Francis.

Student Council members R. Wilke, M. Mueller, E. Fitz, A. Debevec, and A. Scarpitti prepare for the Leadership Workshop.

Council members are kept busy taking part in school activities. Here J. Biasella, M. Sax, and R. Considine work on the CUB drive.

(Above) L. Higgins, S. Weigand, M. Abdoo, R. Buzzelli, J. Severance, M. Walter, V. Vrabel, and M. Kernan busily work on the TACS project by making animals for the blind and retarded children. (Below) Student Council officers P. Savage, B. Sibbio, C. Kusy, A. Dickinson, and F. NHS Sets High Standards for Learning

All smiles is the reaction of these National Honor Society members. (Row 1) President M. Abdoo, Vice-President M. Potter, Secretary M. Walter, and Treasurer J. McVay. (Row 2) C. Kusy, F. Reder, M. Franks, K. Conway, C. Kimmel, D. Cziraki, B. Simmons, P. Stone, and M. Todorovic.

Members of the National Honor Society excel in scholarship, character, leadership and service. To further develop these qualities the members of the society organized a tutoring program, and monitored the noon study halls. They also served as ushers on Vocation Day and at the Open House. In accordance with service and scholarship the National Honor Society printed the honor roll and mailed it to each parish. Members operated the book rack during the lunch hour. For the first time the society sponsored an Academic Excellence Week.

Other members of the NHS noted for their scholarship, leadership, character, and service are: (Standing) V. Vrabel, E. Wagner, L. Higgins, and K. Tucker. (Row 1) P. Savage, F. Jesser, A. Debevec, and J. Severance. (Row 2) S. Weigand, A. Dickinson, and B. Sibbio.

Future Teachers Tutor Grade Schoolers

Future teacher J. Scarpinito instructs interested non-Catholics at a CCD class.

The Future Teachers Association, under the direction of Sister Marie Lenore and Miss Dorothy Delagrange, initiated many new ideas this year. Because it sponsored many money-making projects, the club eliminated dues. Faculty Day provided enjoyment for each teacher as she received a candy-filled sailboat made by future teachers. Catholic Education Week was highlighted by the club's presentation of an educational assembly. Proceeds from the annual Talent Show were sent to South American missions, newly formed by the I.H.M. sisters. "Know Your Community" was a project designed to help each student know more of her community and support projects for its betterment. The club's success was largely due to the co-operation of its members.

Future Teachers officers B. Simmons, K. Elick, J. Sutter, and M. Berardi prepare for their job of tutoring the grade school children.

Secretaries, Nurses Look Ahead to Future

The purpose of the Secretarial Club is to discuss the many phases of a secretarial career. Members did typing and duplicating jobs for the faculty. Club officers are M. Cistone, president; J. Arison, vice-president; N. Livigni, secretary; and A. Moffet, treasurer. Sister Dominica is club moderator.

The main interest of the Future Nurses Club is to help girls choose a nursing career and the school which provides for their training. To achieve this purpose persons in certain fields of nursing give talks about their work. Club officers are P. Wallace, president; D. Williams, vice-president; M. Whitford, secretary; C. Moore, treasurer. Club moderator is Miss Novitsky.

Senior M. Cistone explains the proper operation of the duplicating machine to members of the Secretarial Club A. Moffet, N. Livingi, and K. Leroy. Practicing her filing, J. Arison looks for an important contract.

The nursing career is as exciting as it is rewarding. With this thought in mind, and hoping that they may some day share in this life, interested girls join the Future Nurses' Club. D. Williams caps P. Wallace as J. Ulrich, A. Worthy, C. Moore, M. Tippie, and M. Whitford (seated) look on with interested smiles.

French, Latin Clubs Bridge Gap in Cultures

The French Club moderated by Sister Peter Claver, has as its purpose the development of a better appreciation of the French language. French students achieve this appreciation by the production of French plays and the singing of French songs.

The Freshman Induction, in which the new members were sold as slaves, highlighted the Latin Club activities this year. Official induction was held at the annual banquet where togas made by slaveowners were worn by the slaves. Mr. Woll is club moderator.

French Club officers J. McVay, treasurer, and E. Aldon, president, think it quite amusing the way officers P. Lee, vice-president and M. Potter, secretary pronounce French words.

Latin Club president, K. Tucker, listens as R. Wilke, secretary, displays her great talent in reading Latin translations. Other officers J. Hutchinson, vice-president, and M. Franks, treasurer, seem amused at finding the meanings of several Latin words.

E. Fitz and R. Weigand act out a scene from mythology in their Latin class. By doing this, they gain a better understanding of the Latin language.

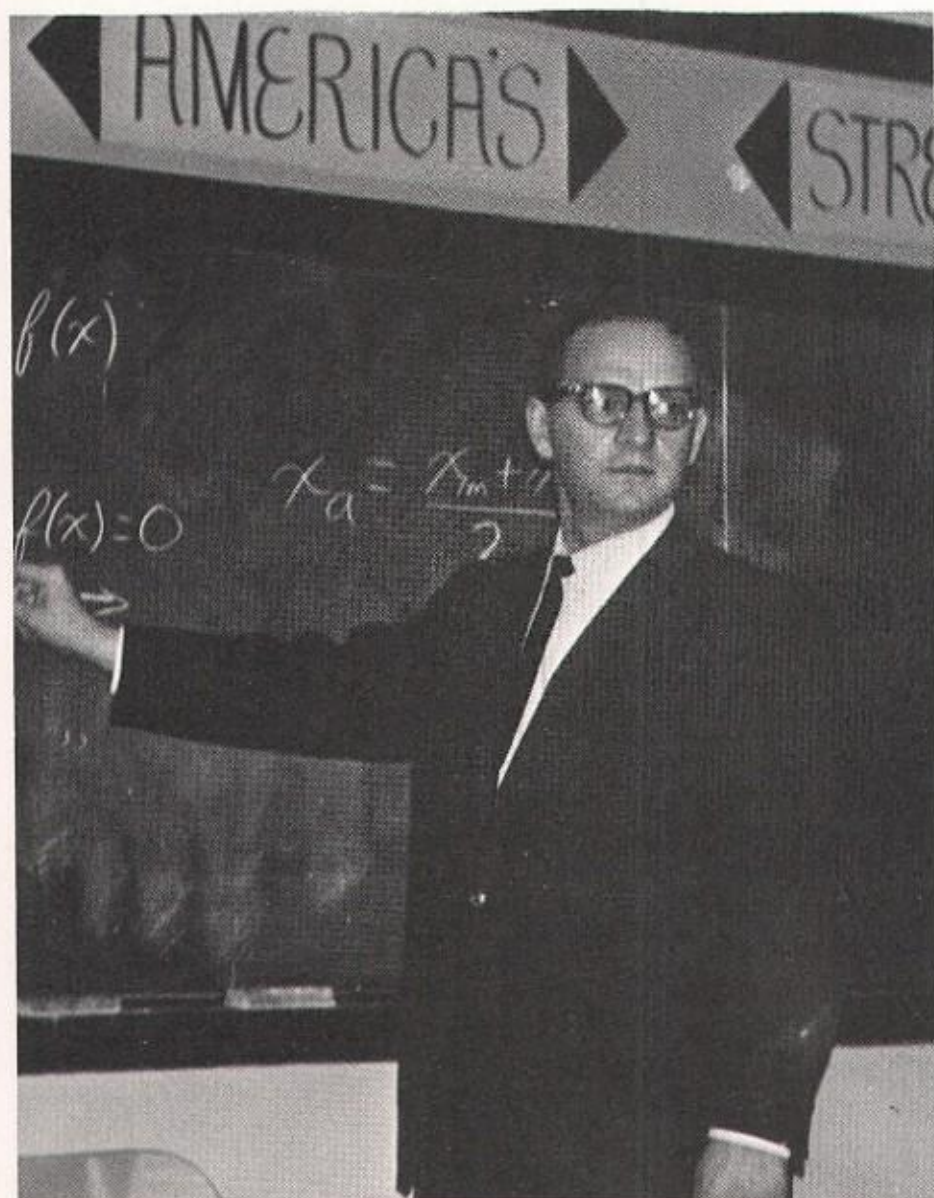

Mathematicians Explore World of Numbers

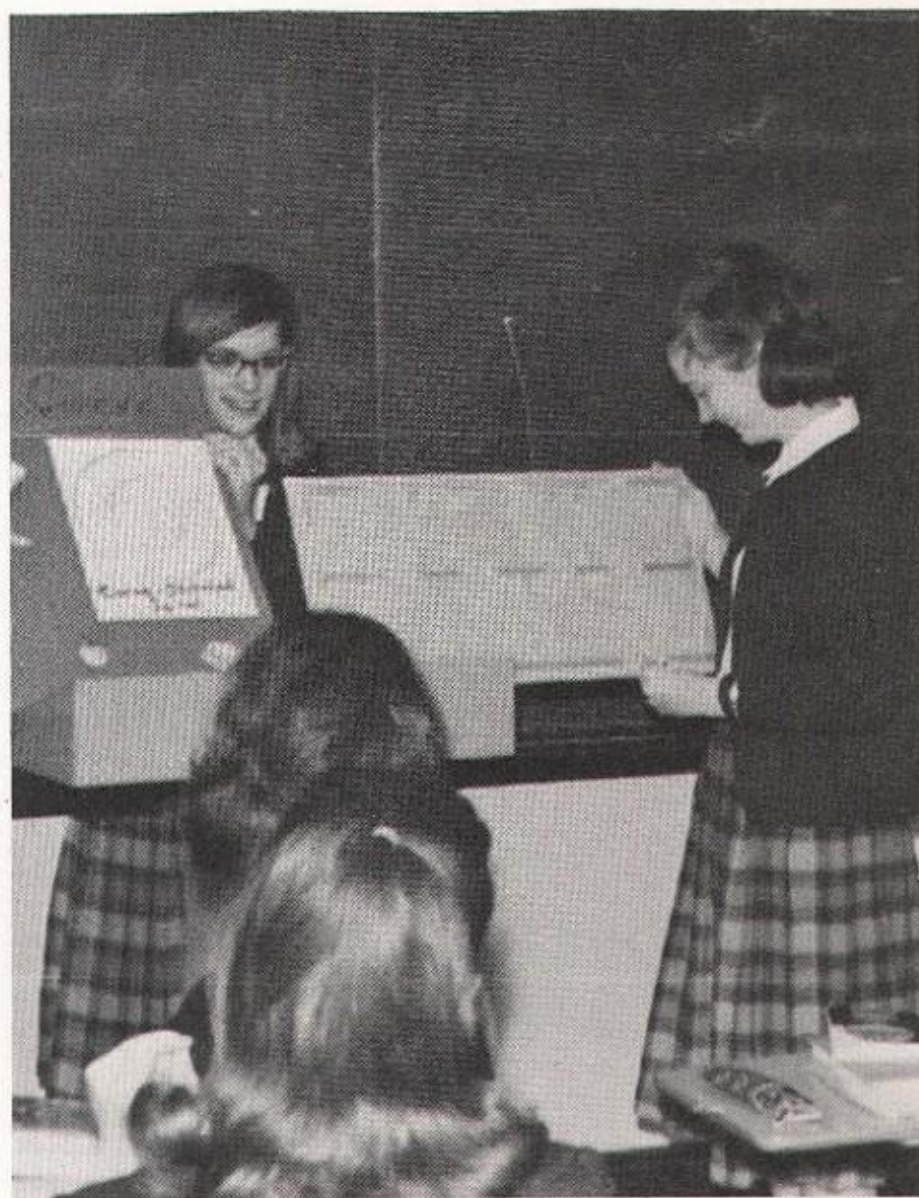

We Three Queens of Orient Are? No, just C. Haines, J. Schubert, and J. Crosley—three Math Club officers—hamming it up at the Christmas party. They entered the meeting singing "We Three Kings of Orient Are" and carrying cartons of coke.

More knowledge of the field of mathematics is the goal of all who study this science. This year the Math Club functioned as one of the largest organizations at St. Mary's, having as its goal three major programs: "to instill a greater interest in mathematics by promoting recreational, academic and project programs." Some interesting projects sponsored by the club were a Math Fair, a visit to each math class by Professor Robert Hathaway, a trip to Dayton, a car wash, and a club picnic. Moderator is Sr. Rose Bernard, co-moderator is Mrs. Dickel. Club president is F. Reder.

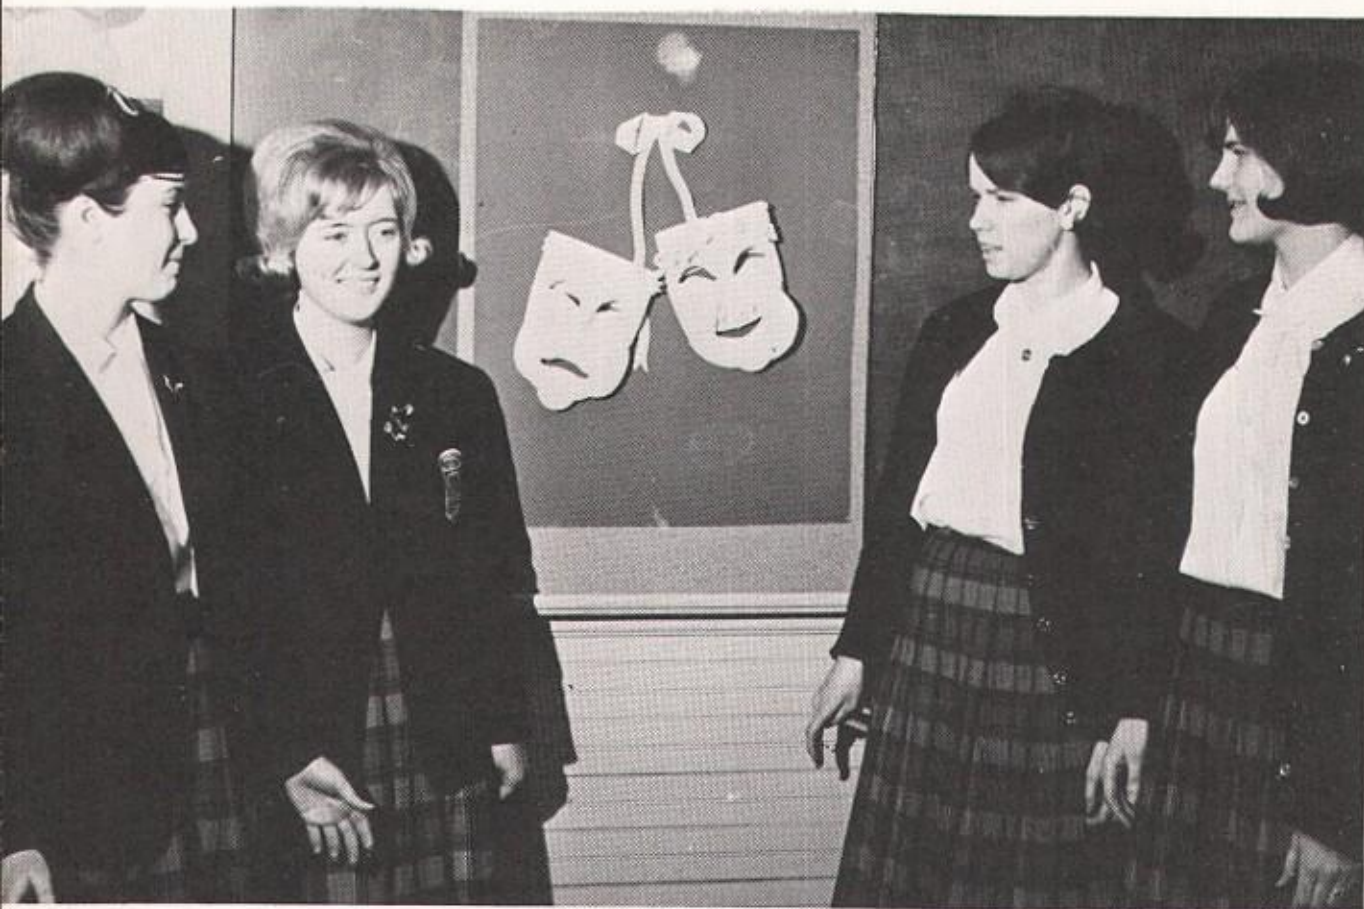

Prof. R. Hathaway, a visiting scientist from the University of Akron, explains a problem to the Math Club. Earlier that day he spoke to each of the math classes.

The Math Club, as any other, requires the attendance and support of all its members. With all of the finishing touches added, L. Sondles and P. Savage explain their projects to the club.

Actresses Star in Drama Club's "Gabawachee"

Drama Club officers are: J. Connell, F. Orndorf, B. Simmons, and M. Breiding.

Some of the activities of the Drama Club included the organization of the Senior Dedication, with the senior Drama Club members participating, and the handling of the lighting for the Education Program, Christmas Program, and Talent Show. The club presented the "Gabawachee" to the grade school during seventh period, the high school after school, and the Mothers Club at their March meeting. Members also attended the Drama Clinic at Kent State University and the One-Act Play Festival at John Carroll University.

Miss Lonesome (B. Lenihan) readily protects Curly (D. Tretto) from the hands of B. Kline and K. Hoynes. What could Curly have done that merits a "broom-swatting"? The success of the "Gabawachee" was due to the hard work of the club moderators, Sister Francesca, Mrs. Wagner, and the cast.

"Gabawachee," presented by the Drama Club for the St. Mary's Mothers Club, was a huge success. C. Stallard, a gabawachee, performs for the audience.

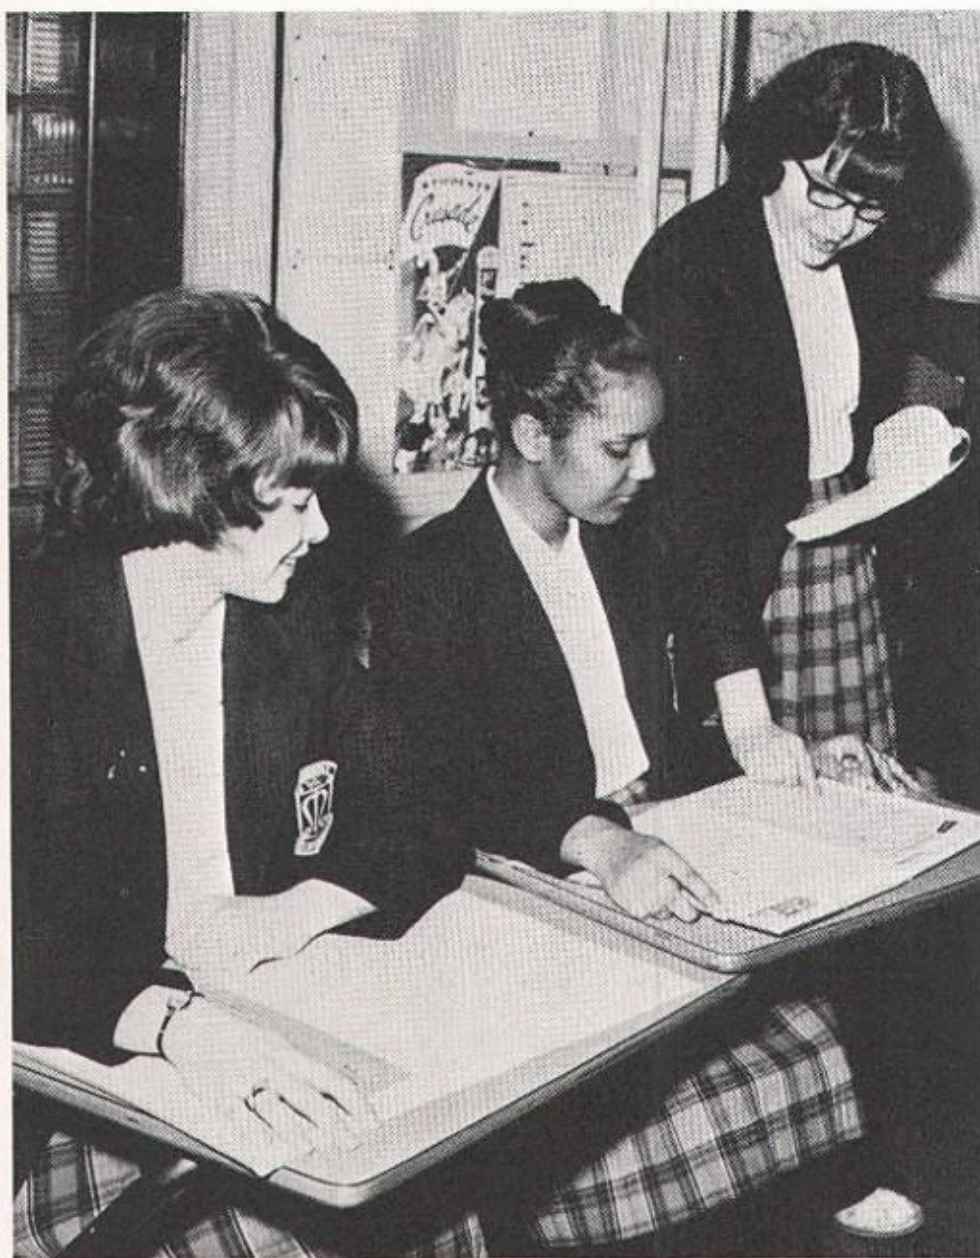

Students Study Driving Skills, Racial Problems

S. Hill takes the wheel while M. Laws and M. Polovick sit shivering (from fright?) as they wait their turn.

The four fundamentals of the Interracial Club are: to better understand our fellow men; to expand our knowledge of interracial problems; to promote understanding between races; and to be better informed about today's racial problems. There is no more effective method for putting these fundamentals into practice than personal example. Through projects and study the Interracial Club tries to promote better relationships between the races so that man can some day hope to live in a world in which all men are equal both in their eyes and in the eyes of God.

This year's officers are: J. Guenther, president; T. Jenkins, vice-president; M. Berardi, secretary; S. Greathouse, treasurer. The club's moderator is Mr. Bamont.

The Interracial Club deals with relationships existing between races. Before the meeting begins, members A. Gannon and R. Jenkins take a last minute look at C. Llewellyn's report on the subject.

Stressing the need for "Equality in education, equality in employment, and equality in housing," Dr. E. T. Sharpe, regional chairman of the NAACP, addresses the Interracial Club.

Spirit Backs Teams In GAA Intramurals

P. Testa calls the roll as President M. Conrad waits to begin the GAA meeting. What is K. Welsh discussing that is more important than roll call?

The G.A.A. sponsors many different programs which contribute to the school's recreational and sports activities. Members work as gym assistants for Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Kidder, the high school and grade school gym teachers. Each year the G.A.A. sponsors a basketball and volleyball intramural series. This year the faculty played the seniors in a never-to-be-forgotten game of basketball. Non-recreational activities included a car wash, bake sale and the annual style show. This year's officers were: M. Conrad, D. Mollica, P. Testa and L. Dieringer. The moderator was Mrs. Harris.

There is sure to be excitement and action whenever two good teams are pitted against each other. So it was at the senior-junior intramurals. Here, S. Bedell takes it upon herself to guard two seniors.

As the end of the game draws near, tension mounts higher and higher. At intermission, the senior band broke the tension with musical accompaniment for a few cheers.

Bowlers Aim Straight, Have Strikes to Spare

The Bowling Club, moderated by Mr. Waickman, meets every Tuesday at Borie's Bowland to match their skills against each other. This year Stephanie Bodner won a cute stuffed dog, the first prize in the Christmas Tournament. The season ended with the Bowling Banquet.

M. Campanale gets ready to roll her next ball (which will probably be a strike?) while I. Wierick checks her score to see if she can find any mistakes.

Concentration is a factor in good bowling. As S. Linn keeps score, A. Berish thinks about her next turn and hopes she gets a strike instead of a gutter ball.

"I don't believe that I actually bowled over one hundred!" seems to be what J. Pouliot is proudly telling her fellow bowlers. Other club officers, D. Beltram and M. Campanale, also find it hard to believe, but they agree that it is quite a wonderful accomplishment, so they smile in approval. Club president, C. Benson, however, looks as if she feels that one hundred isn't so great and that she could do much better.

Busy Students Paint Posters, Corner Kings

Some Publicity Club members who stopped to pose for their picture are: C. Nelson, A. Czaplicke, K. Welsh, R. Delnoce, K. Oreskovich, and K. Yeager.

The Publicity Club is responsible for the many posters and buttons that are seen around the school before special events. The club is headed by C. Nelson, president; K. Yeager, vice-president; J. Cerrone, secretary; and K. Oreskovich, treasurer. Club moderator is Sister M. Aline.

The newly formed Chess Club, moderated by Sr. Rose Bernard, has as its purpose the perpetuation of the time-honored game of chess. Club members compete among themselves and with players from other schools. Club officers are J. Barone, president; N. Banevich, secretary; and B. Gaugler, treasurer.

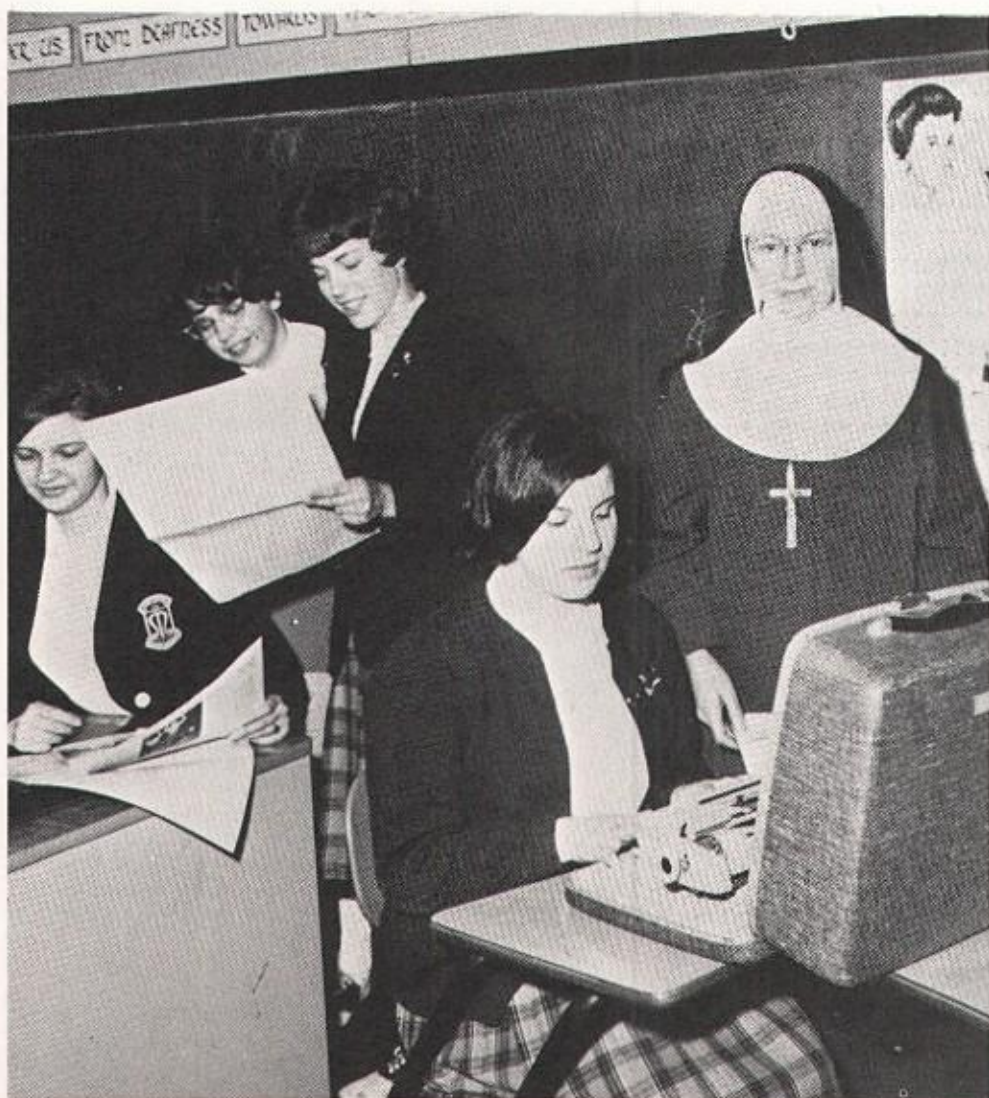

C. Benson and B. Gaugler play a friendly game of chess while T. Heller and N. Banevich look on, trying to learn some new tricks.

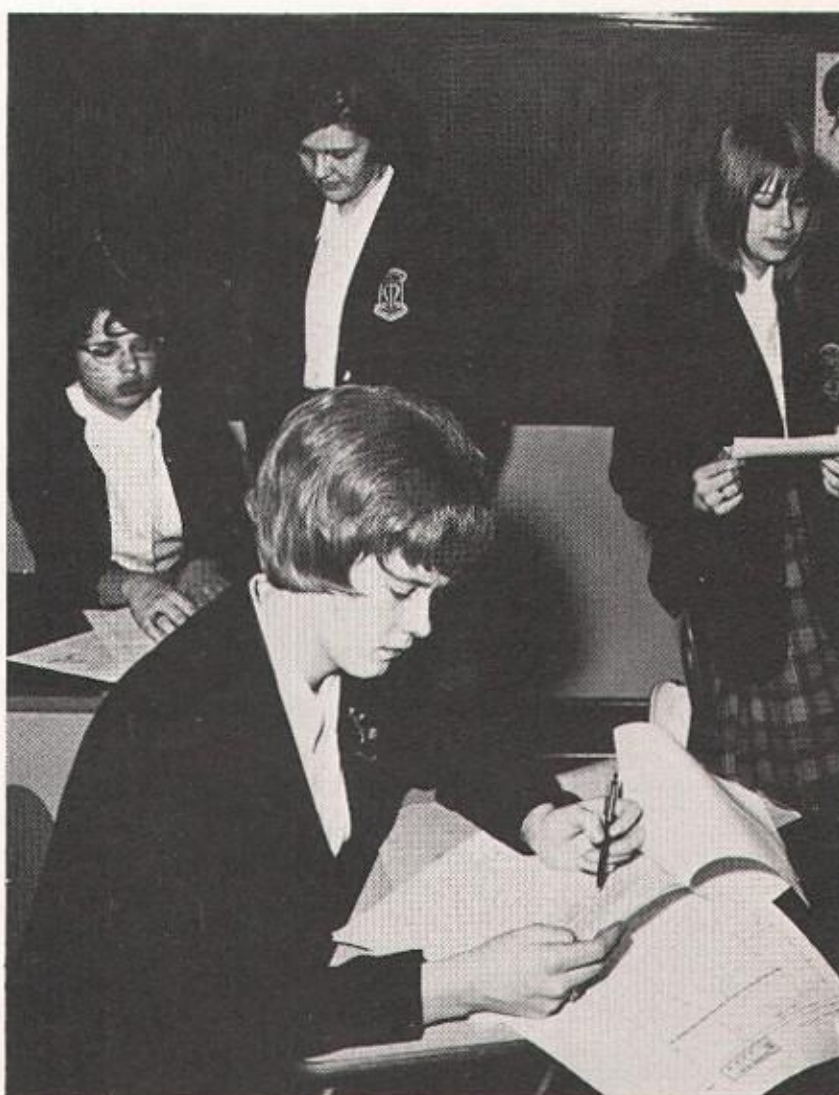

Crusader Staff Puts Out First Class Paper

C. Kimmel, J. Sekerak, P. Ostroski, S. Trofy, K. Welsh, K. Elick, P. Lee, and G. Nist work hard to meet that deadline.

J. Sekerak, P. Ostroski, G. Nist, C. Kimmel, and Sr. Mary Herman.

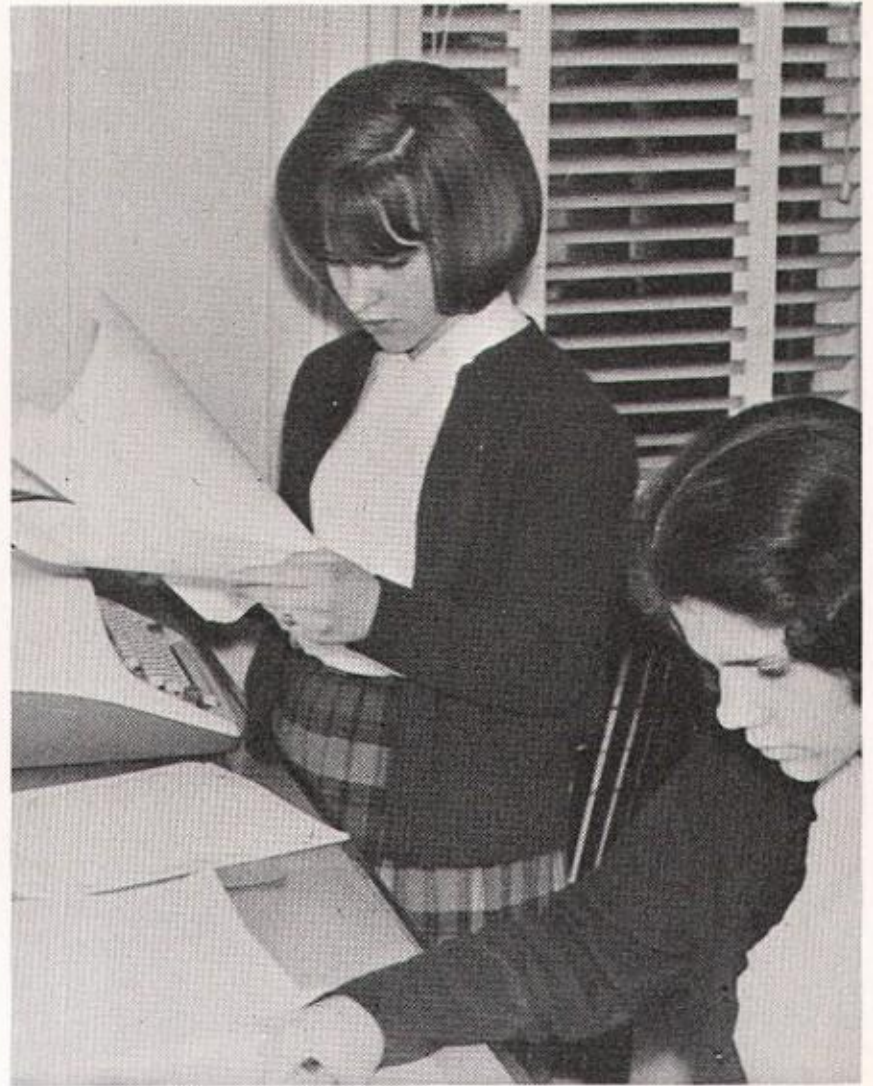

Our prize-winning Crusader is given the finishing touches by K. Welsh, P. Ostroski, J. Sekerak, and S. Trofy.

Dedication Is Key to Bluebook's Success

Working on the Bluebook was like a dream (or nightmare) for Editor Paula Stone and Co-Editor Ellen Adlon. In fact both seem to think of nothing else—night or day—than the delivery date of the book.

"Boy, another page done!" thinks Assistant Editor Franni Kramer as she checks the copy for typing mistakes. Copy Editor Cecilia Mize reaches for another picture from the bottomless pile and the Bluebook moves a step nearer to completion.

A member of the copy staff, Helen Labbe writes copy for one of the hundreds of pictures used in the book.

Business Manager Linda Dieringer was up to her ears in money during the patron drive, but she lived through it to become the most successful business manager yet.

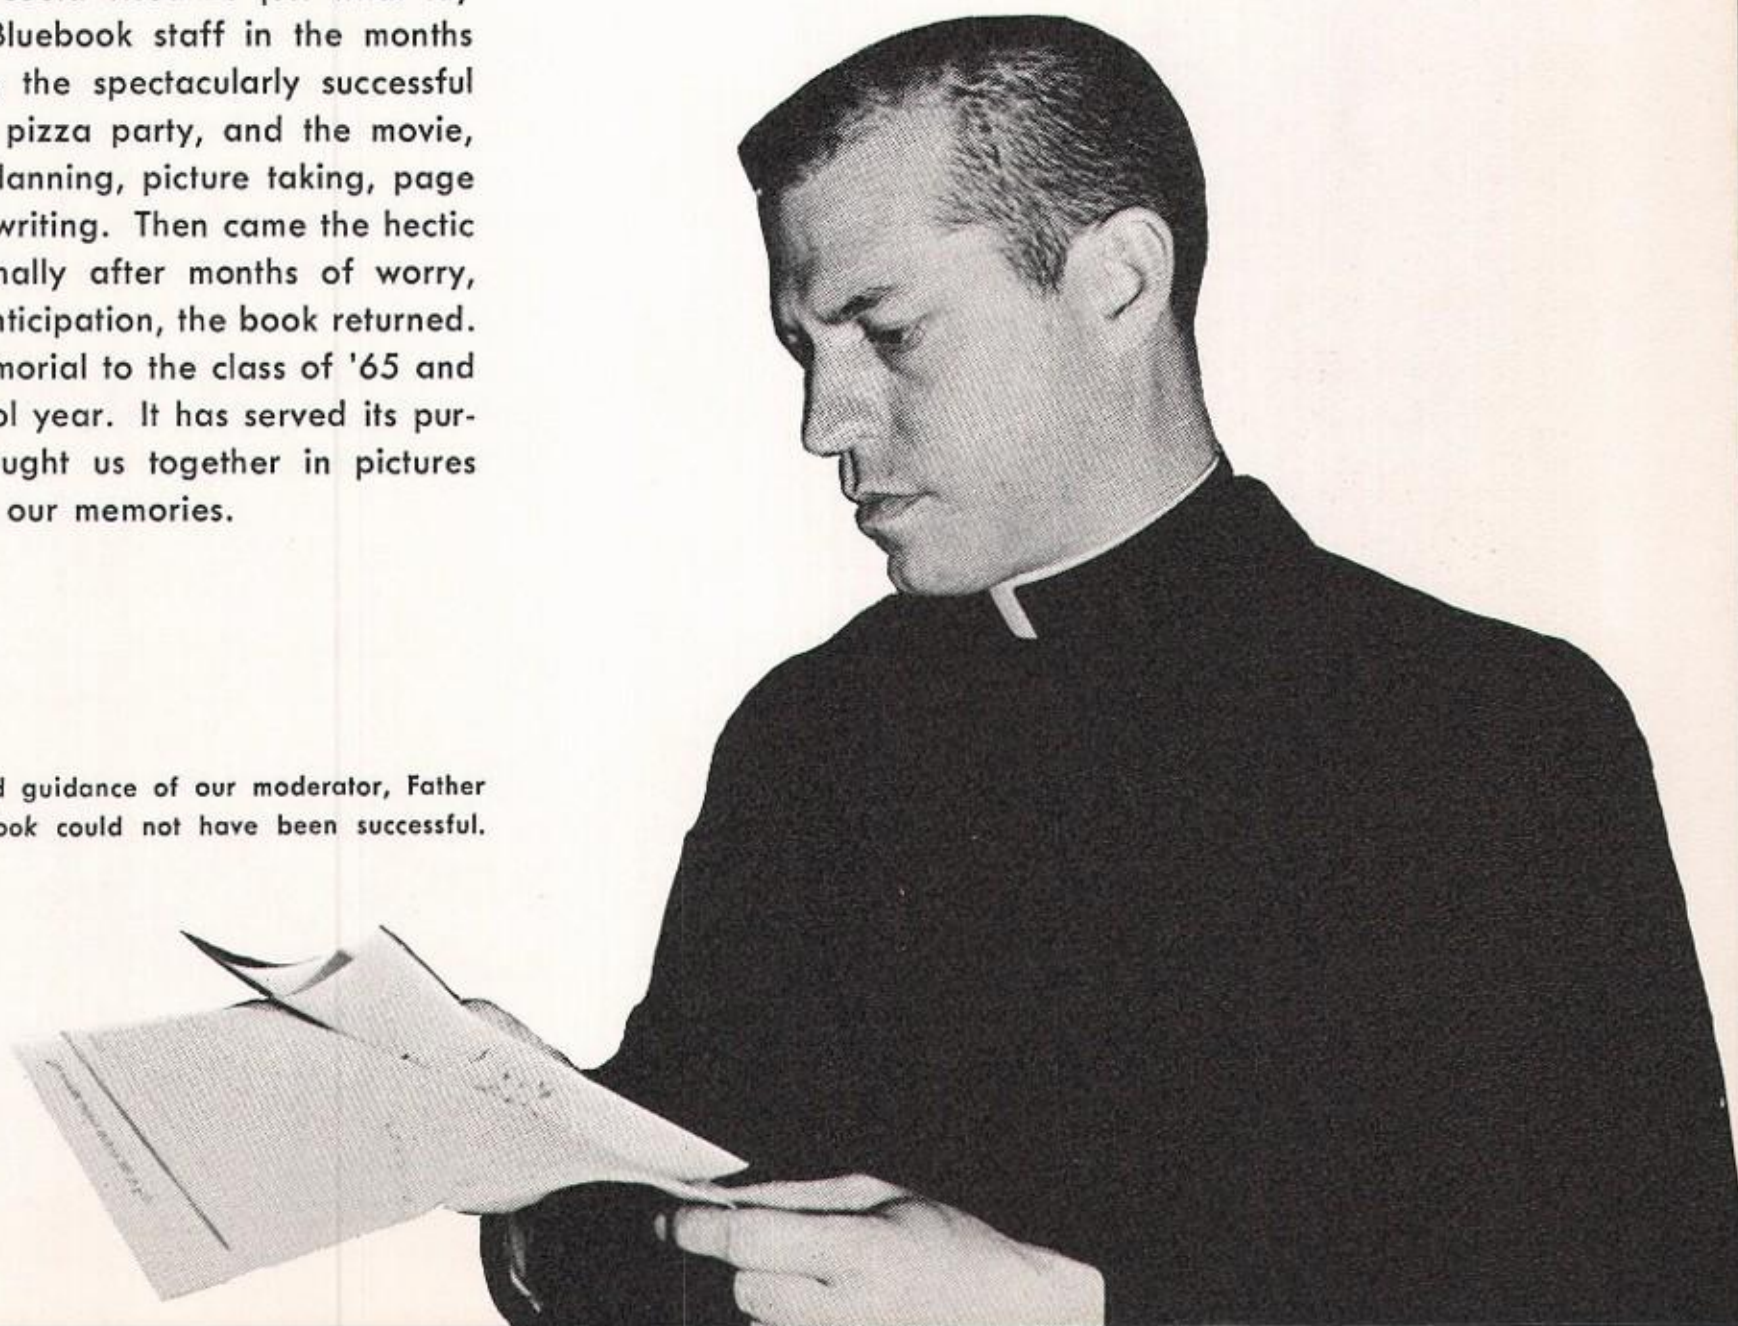

"Yes, I love to write copy," says Elaine Cardina as she struggles with a tricky phrase.

There really is more to working on the Bluebook than writing copy, but it would be pretty hard to convince Alice Debevec and Barb Elmore of this fact.

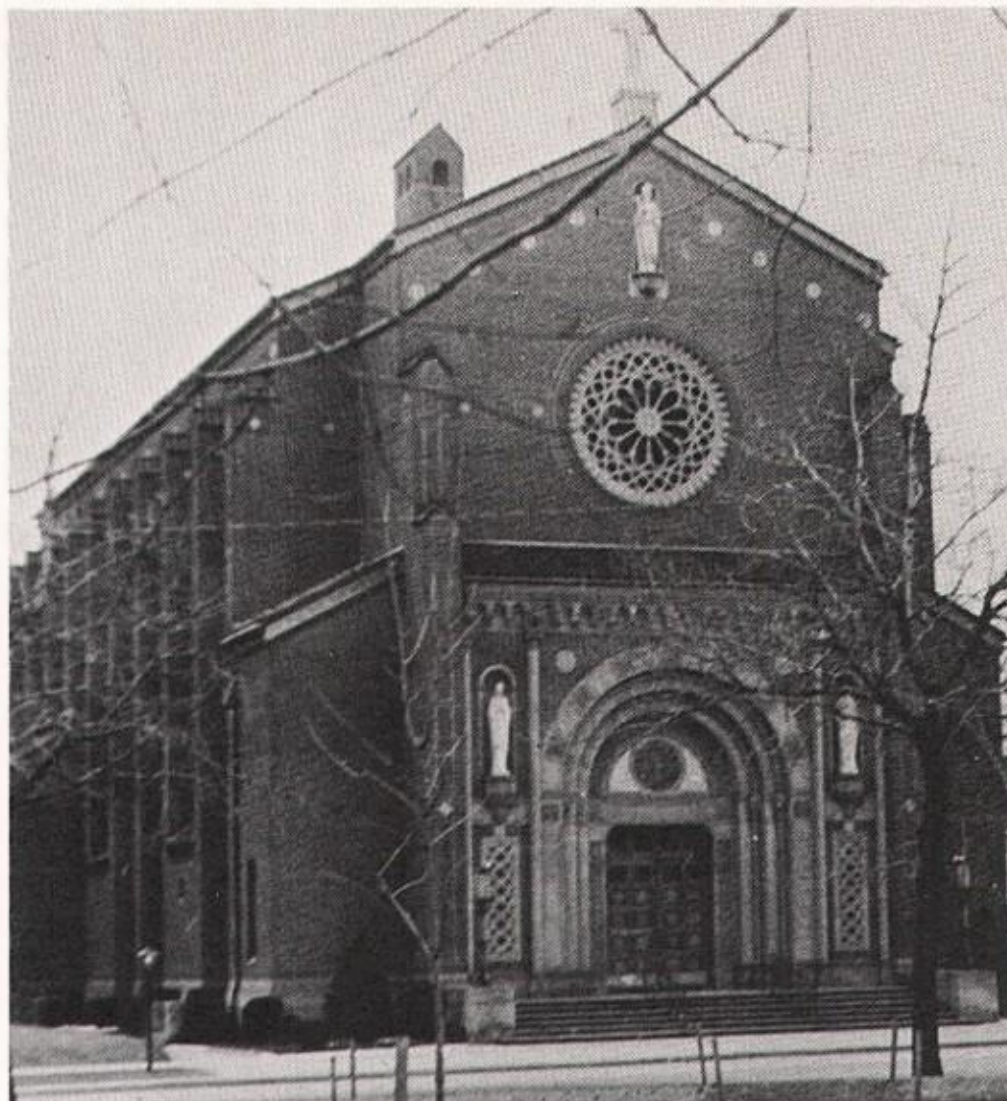

At the beginning of the patron drive last October, no one could visualize just what lay in store for the Bluebook staff in the months ahead. Following the spectacularly successful patron drive, the pizza party, and the movie, were months of planning, picture taking, page layout, and copy writing. Then came the hectic paste-up. But, finally after months of worry, frustration, and anticipation, the book returned. It stands as a memorial to the class of '65 and to the 1965 school year. It has served its purpose. It has brought us together in pictures and now it stores our memories.

Without the help and guidance of our moderator, Father Schneider, the Bluebook could not have been successful.
